WOBURN EXPLOSION; 2 HURT

CITY AGAIN SHAKEN BY BLOW-UP

End of Building in the Merrimac Chemical Co. Is Shattered; Cause Is Not Yet Made Known

Two men were injured and the entire end of a building blown out when a huge vat of formic acid exploded today in the plant of the Merrimac Chemical Company at North Woburn.

James Coleman, who was standing on a ladder which rested against the platform on which the vat stood, was hurled across the room, sustaining injuries to his back that may prove fatal.

Frank Marotte, a mason's helper, who was working in the yard thirty feet from the building, was thrown violently to the ground, and sustained cuts and abrasions, as well as a wrenched back.

Eight or ten other men, who were in the building at the time, escaped without injury, although all suffered from shock.

Windows in all the buildings in the plant, and rocked houses in Woburn. The officials could give no explanation of the cause of the explosion, which caused damage estimated by them at $10,000.

SECOND IN A MONTH.

The explosion took place at 10 o'clock and was the second in a little more than a month which has terrified residents of Woburn and surrounding cities and towns.

On February 29 a vat in the trinitrotoluol or "T. N. T." shop of the New England Manufacturing Company exploded at 1:05 in the morning, injuring one man and causing damage estimated at more than $75,000.

Today's explosion took place in the formic acid building of the Merrimac Chemical Company, a two-story wooden structure, 100 by 60 feet in size. This plant is located a short distance from that of the New England Manufacturing Company.

The vat, in which formic acid was mixed, was erected on a platform raised about seven feet from the floor. Coleman, who is forty years old, and resides in North Woburn, was standing on a ladder which leaned against the platform. It is thought that he was about to mount to the platform to ascertain if the acid had become mixed.

OTHERS EMPLOYES ESCAPE.

Before he reached the top of the ladder, there was a tremendous detonation. The sides of the vat were blown to pieces, one end of the building was blown completely out, and Coleman was hurled through the air for some distance.

Other employes were thrown to the ground, but escaped without injuries other than shock. Coleman did not lose consciousness, and complained of pains in his back. The other men could hardly realize that he was not killed, considering his escape something in the nature of a miracle.

He was given first aid at the plant, and then taken to the Choate Memorial Hospital and placed under the care of Dr. James P. Bixby.

The other buildings in the plant, as well as in the plant of the New England Manufacturing Company, were swayed in the shock as though by an earthquake, and their windows broken. Marotte, who lives at No. 64 Pleasant street, was lifted from his feet where he was working in the yard, and thrown over backward, landing on his head. He was also given first aid treatment, and then removed to his home, where he was treated by Dr. William H. Kelleher.

Bandits Menace Supply Trains

Extra guards of infantry have been placed on all motor trains as a result of numerous warnings that Villa adherents are gathering in the Chihuahua desert north and south of Ascension and near the motor truck trail leading from Columbus to Casas Grandes. The object, it is reported, is to cut the line of communication, and, if possible, isolate and surround the stations of American forces in Mexico.

BRITISH REFUSE U.S. REQUEST ON MEN SEIZED

By International News Service.

Washington, April 4—Great Britain, in an official communication to Secretary Lansing, received today, refuses to release the thirty-eight Germans taken off the American steamship China of the China Mail Steamship Company by a British cruiser several weeks ago near Shanghai.

This is the first time during the present war that such a request has not been granted by the allied powers. France, in two similar instances, freed Germans taken off American vessels when requested to do so by this government.

The China was en route to San Francisco, her home port, when a British warship stopped her and seized as prisoners of war thirty-eight German civilians on board.

They were removed over the protests of the China's captain.

Great Britain's communication was received at the State Department shortly before the cabinet meeting. Secretary Lansing carried the communication with him to the White House. It was the main subject discussed by the President and his advisers. While no official announcement was made it was learned following the meeting that the United States will make further and more vigorous demands at once that Great Britain release the Germans.

It was pointed out that the situation with Great Britain is made more serious because of the fact that she has rejected the demands of the United States in two cases within twenty-four hours. The refusal to stop interfering with American mails on the high seas, it was said by officials, was fully as serious as the issue in the China case.

"The United States government will not stand for such a violation of neutral rights," one high official in the State Department declared when asked if he believed this government would make further representations.

Latest War Bulletins

London, April 4.—Fire that broke out late last week in one of the government powder factories in Kent caused a number of explosions resulting approximately in 200 casualties, the Ministry of Munitions announced today. The fire was still burning yesterday, but is now believed to be under control. The official says that the fire was accidental, but it is considered possible that it was caused by a bomb dropped from one of the Zeppelins that raided the county of Kent last week.

Petrograd, April 4.—Reprisals are threatened by the Russian government for the sinking of the hospital ship Portugal by a German or Turkish submarine in the Black Sea with heavy loss of life. The Spanish and United States embassies have been requested to bring the protest to the attention of Germany.

Paris, April 4.—A German seaplane, with a broken wing, which fell into the North Sea, has been towed into Dunkirk by a French destroyer, says a dispatch received here today. The two occupants of the seaplane were captured.

Rome, April 4.—Two of the five Austrian seaplanes that attacked Ancona on Monday were destroyed and a third was captured intact, it was stated in an official report issued by the War Office today. Three persons were killed and eleven wounded.

THREATEN TO ARREST 'LUTHER'

Anti-Catholic Agitator Begs the Police to Save Him and Promises Not to Return to City

Haverhill, April 4.—Thomas E. Leyden, self-styled "the Luther of America," fled to Newburyport in an automobile early today, after having been locked in an ante-room in City Hall all night, while a mob surged about the building demanding that he be produced.

Before leaving Leyden promised Commissioner of Public Safety Charles M. Hoyt that he would not attempt to speak in this city again today.

Leyden made his escape after the majority of the crowd had dispersed, those remaining being held under control of the militia, which was called out when the police found themselves unable to control the mob.

Before making his escape Leyden fell on his knees before City Marshal John J. Mack and Patrolman Frank Brisson and begged them to get him safely out of Haverhill. He swore that if he once got out of the city unharmed he would never return.

After he had left, Marshal Mack said:

"I don't know where Leyden is and I don't care, as long as he is out of the city. He may be in Somerville or he may be in the Merrimack River."

Leyden was scheduled to speak in Lawrence tomorrow night, but it was believed that his schedule would be changed.

City Marshal Mack later issued a statement, in which he said:

"If Dr. Leyden returns to Haverhill tonight and attempts to speak, he will be placed under arrest on the charge of inciting a riot. I want to make that as emphatic as possible. He had better not come back."

While police and militia guarded City Hall, in which Leyden and his secretary, Clarence Howland, crouched terrified, bands of hoodlums went about the city breaking into houses and smashing windows. Many reports of depredations were received by the police today.

VICE TRIAL THRONG ANGRY

Attack Officer in Mistake for Watch and Ward Agent; Two Girls in Court Deny Charges

Patrolman Cornelius J. Shea of the West Roxbury police station was knocked down and badly beaten in the belief that he was a Watch and Ward Society agent by a crowd of men in Pemberton square today.

The attack took place during the trial of two young women on the charge of soliciting in cafes, the complainants being two agents of the society.

Shea, who was in plain clothes, emerged desperately, while cries of "Kill him" rang out from the crowd, drowning his statement that he was a police officer.

He was in bad shape when Patrolman Fitzgerald of the Joy street station arrived and went to his assistance. Promptly arrested Samuel Maskell, twenty-one years of Chelsea, on the charge of assaulting Shea. A second man, whom Officer Hoyt tried to arrest, escaped in the crowd, which dispersed and went back to the courthouse.

10 CASES SCHEDULED.

As a result of the activities of the Watch and Ward Society, sixteen young women suffering for additional purposes were scheduled to appear in the Municipal Court today. Leaving before court opened the corridors were jammed with human beings and a great deal of feeling was in evidence against the society's agents.

When the cases of Lillian O'Brien and Rose Goddard of Lynn were called before Judge Brackett every seat in the courtroom was taken, and the overflow was standing fifteen feet in the rear of the room.

The complainants against the young women who were found guilty, were Harry Grossman and John M. Ryan, agents for the Watch and Ward Society. They testified to going into a West End hotel on February 23 and seeing the two girls at a nearby table in the room, who said that they were Harvard students, testified that the women came over to their table and made improper overtures to them before asking for drinks.

Testifying in her own defense, Lillian O'Brien said that she made no improper suggestions, and that as a matter of fact she was engaged to a young man in Lynn. The witness said that she went to the hotel in question once a week. She said that she was in the habit of flirting if she liked the man's looks, and to the question in question she had flirted because she thought she could secure more drinks by so doing.

JUST WANTED DRINK.

The other woman testified that she had been married twelve years, and that on the occasion when they met the two agents, she merely wanted them to buy her another drink. She declared that she made no improper overtures. Their cases were continued until Friday in order that the probation officer might look up their records.

McFarland Gets First Pen Used On Convention Bill

Governor McCall used three pens in signing the bill for a constitutional convention. He gave the first pen to Grenville S. MacFarland, chief editorial writer of the Boston AMERICAN, and the second to former Senator Charles E. Burbank of East Bridgewater. Governor McCall has not decided to whom he will give the third pen. He regards the passage of the bill as the most important achievement of his administration.

SUE PUTNAM IN $4,974 OVER WIFE'S GOWNS

Suit to recover $4,974.18 from James Lowell Putnam, a prominent attorney, formerly living on Beacon street and now a resident of Fifth avenue, New York, has been filed in the Superior Court by Driscoll, Ide, Arens and Holloway, dealers at No. 124 Boylston street, as interest and balance on a bill for $11,139.37 for dresses, millinery and other furnishings alleged to have been purchased by Mrs. Putnam.

An itemized bill covering four typewritten pages has been filed by counsel for the dressmaker, the smallest amount being $1.50 for an alteration and the largest $490 for a blue velvet suit.

Among the charges are that, in September, 1913, Mrs. Putnam had an orange hat with a bracaded bow, $35; brown velvet hat, $35; brown flowered silk suit, $165; gray chiffon waist, $75; orange velvet flower, $3; rose velvet flower, $9.

In December she had a mole chiffon

PERSHING TAKES 200 BANDITS

In Addition Cavalry Is Estimated to Have Killed One Hundred in Battle With the Fleeing Forces

By WALLACE F. SMITH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

El Paso, Tex., April 4—The presence of Pancho Villa, with a small band of his followers in the neighborhood of Satevo, was corroborated here today in dispatches received by Bishop Brown, of the Mormon colony.

The dispatches came from Juan Terranzas a wealthy rancher in Chihuahua. Terranzas said he believes Villa is headed for Parral, for which a good road leads from Satevo.

By International News Service.

Washington, April 4.—Major General Scott, chief of staff of the army, today announced that additional United States troops have been sent into Mexico to reinforce General Pershing's expedition in the pursuit of Villa.

It was officially admitted that the additional troops had crossed the border at Columbus, N. M.

The forces recently at Columbus were the Fifth Cavalry and the Twentieth and Twenty-fourth Infantry. It is believed here that all of the cavalry and part of the infantry forces were sent to join Pershing's expedition.

General Scott also announced today that nineteen Apache Indian scouts, under command of Captain Hazard of the Tenth Cavalry, left Fort Apache, Arizona, today to guide the pursuing and Dodd forces through the mountainous sections of Mexico, in which Villa is now hiding. All of the Indians are thoroughly acquainted with that section of Mexico, having spent years there.

200 VILLA BANDITS CAPTURED BY THE U. S.

200 Bandits Taken Prisoners

San Antonio, Tex., April 4—More than 200 Villistas are reported in advices received at Fort Sam Houston to have been captured by the expeditionary force of General Pershing in Mexico. The total losses among Villa's following were unofficially estimated today at 300. At least sixty were killed in the San Geronimo battle and more were shot down in the running fight that followed.

It was definitely established today by dispatches from field headquarters in Mexico that the Seventh Cavalry, commanded by Colonel Erwin, had the honor of inflicting the first defeat upon Villa.

The Seventh, forming one of the advance pursuing columns under Colonel Dodd, learned of Mata-Ortiz that Villa was headed for Guerrero. Colonel Erwin attempted by a night march through a heavy rainstorm to head off Villa, but the latter succeeded in reaching and attacking the town before the American troopers arrived.

Cavalry Pursues Villa Bodyguard

El Paso, April 4—Francisco Villa has been compelled by the rapid pursuit of American cavalry to abandon his plans for an attack upon Chihuahua City. On Sunday afternoon the bandit, accompanied by eight members of his personal bodyguard, was in the vicinity of Satevo, forty-two miles straight north of Chihuahua. Of fifteen miles in Americans pursuers were twenty miles behind the fleeing bandits.

This was the word that came today by courier from Casas Grandes. It appeared to be the most reliable information received during the last three days as to the whereabouts of Villa. The same courier reported that intermittent rifle fire had been heard for several hours on March 31 near El Valle, the scene of the punitive expedition. He said he believed the bandits had followed an attempt by a band of mounted Mexicans to cut the lines of communication between Casas Grandes and El Valle.

ESCAPED CAPTURE.

From the story told by the courier it appeared that Villa had a narrow escape from capture when his forces were beaten in the fighting at San Geronimo ranch in the guerrero district last Wednesday. The Americans were close on "Pancho's" trail last week, and were delayed by their horses getting tired and were led along a rough and almost impassable trail. In the meantime Villa, taking shorter and more easier path, got several miles beyond the point where Colonel Dodd had hoped to catch him.

Nightfall forced the wearied Americans to halt. Villa rallied all and by morning had successfully eluded his pursuers. The Mexican riddles whose misleading information has permitted his escape were sent to the rear of the American column and are reported to be still under arrest.

Though the safety of Chihuahua City was assured by the rapid pace of the Americans when they again picked up Villa's trail, army officers in El Paso shook their heads in doubt when they learned that the fugitive had reached the neighborhood of Satevo.

About this adobe village on the Rio San Pedro cluster mountains forming an ragged and treacherous belt of country as ever sheltered a band of outbreaks. In the hills along the San Pedro and its confluents a regiment might be securely hidden away, and frontiersmen declare that Villa and his eight followers may rest there in security indefinitely.

VILLA ELUDES TRAP.

In pressing forward in pursuit of Villa the American troops are exposed to flank attacks from the various bands into which the bandit's force was divided following the defeat at San Geronimo. The zero squad with General Pershing's expedition may be able to prevent any surprise, but in the thick woods the bandits might escape the eyes of the military observers high in the air.

It was not until Saturday, three days after the battle at San Geronimo, that Villa's trail was again picked up at San Andreas, twenty-two miles west of Chihuahua City. He appeared to be headed directly for Chihuahua City, but changed his route when informed by a spy that Americans had arrived at San Antonio, southwest of San Andreas. His pursuers were trying to outflank him, but Villa turned directly southward and escaped by riding through Chavarria and Santa Isabel.

It was here that General Luis Herrera, the Carranza leader who recently left Chihuahua with 1,500 men, would have been able to cut Villa off if he had tried to do so. Villa, however, met with no opposition from the Carranzistas, so far as can be learned, and ran unmolested down the San Pedro valley.

STEAMER FROM NEW YORK IN COLLISION

London, April 4—The British tank steamer Narragansett, which sailed from New York on March 19 for London, was damaged in a collision off Goodwin lightship today. The Narragansett belonged to the Anglo-American Oil Company and is of 9,196 tons displacement.

WAR SUMMARY

The French have begun their inevitable withdrawal from the Malancourt-Bethincourt salient. They have fallen back to the line of the Forges brook. This represents a direct gain of about a mile, on a three-mile front, for the Germans here during the past four days.

The French defensive line now runs from the crest of Dead Man's Hill north to Bethincourt, then southwest toward Avocourt. Hill No. 304, slightly southwest of Dead Man's Hill, is the key to the French defences here.

The Germans have two courses: a frontal attack along the line of the brook, which if successful would compel the evacuation of the Bethincourt salient; or an attack in the direction of Esnes, from the Avocourt wood, which if successful would compel the evacuation of Hill No. 304 or the surrender of the French force defending that height. The French say a heavy bombardment is in progress, in which the territory between Haucourt and Esnes is suffering heavily; so that the probabilities appear to favor an attack from this point, aimed east toward Esnes and south toward the Avocourt-Esnes road.

The French, who appear to have accepted the German challenge to fight to the death for Verdun, and who have thrown heavy reinforcements into the fortress from other sections of the line, gained the advantage by counter-attacks south of Fort Douaumont, according to today's reports.

They have driven the Germans out of all but the northern end of the Caillette wood, and have recaptured the western portion of the village of Vaux.

Essen, the centre of activity of the Krupps, has been bombed by allied aeroplanes, with what effect is not known. This is almost the first time the planes have ventured so far from their bases.

There is considerable artillery activity northwest of Rheims, the French apparently expecting a German attack there, and bombarding the concentrating troops and artillery.

The Russians admit that their recent offensive operations in Poland and Galicia have ended, the offensive passing to the Germans. In the Caucasus the Russians claim gains, while the Turks say the Czar's forces have been checked.

The British captured a mine crater and some prisoners at St. Eloi.

BRITISH RETAKE CRATER

By International News Service.

London, April 4—After a severe battle the English have succeeded in recapturing a mine crater south of St. Eloi, which the Germans had previously occupied. This was admitted today by the German War Office.

St. Eloi is southeast of Ypres in West Flanders, Southwest and south of Fort Douaumont on the Verdun front, the Germans captured strong French defensive works.

French counter attacks in the region of Fort Douaumont were repulsed.

Following is the text of today's German official report:

"West front—After lively artillery fire the English recaptured the mine crater south of St. Eloi.

"In the region of Fort Douaumont on April 2 we captured strong French defensive positions, which lie south and southwest of the fort, and also in Caillette Wood.

REPULSE FRENCH.

"French counter attacks were repulsed.

"The French repeatedly delivered storm attacks against the positions they had lost in Caillette forest, but all were fruitless. These attacks cost the French heavy sacrifices.

"During the attacks on April 2 we captured nineteen officers and 740 men as well as eighty-seven machine guns and other booty."

The text of today's French official communique follows:

ARTILLERY EXCHANGE.

"In the Argonne we shelled German organizations, particularly in the region of Montfaucon and Malancourt.

"West of the Meuse there was a very violent artillery duel from Avocourt to Malancourt.

"East of the Meuse the night was comparatively quiet. The Germans did not make a single attack on the Douaumont-Vaux front. Re-established by our counter-attacks of yesterday, our batteries displayed particular activity against the enemy's positions in that region. The enemy replied only feebly.

"East of Le Prêtre forest a strong reconnaissance force of the enemy was dispersed by our rifle fire. In Alsace our batteries took under their fire supply convoys on the Thann-Mulhausen road."

British Budget of $10,000,000,000 Plans for Another War Year

By FRANK TEWSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, April 4.—That the British government expects the war to last at least one more year was shown today when Reginald McKenna, Chancellor of the Exchequer, introduced the $10,000,000,000 war budget.

The budget provides for war expenses to carry on hostilities throughout the whole fiscal year.

The actual expenditures are set forth in the budget at $7,795,000,000, which was $155,000,000 less than estimated by Mr. McKenna in his budget speech in the House of Commons last September. When he estimated the expenditures at $7,950,000,000.

SIX BILLION DEFICIT.

The estimated revenue for the year, based upon the proposals outlined in the budget speech, is estimated at $2,545,000,000. The actual revenue for the year (based upon the old system of taxation), is $1,685,000,000, which exceeds by $160,000,000 the estimate made by Mr. McKenna in September.

The total indebtedness of the government on March 31 was $10,570,000,000, of which sum $1,814,000,000 had been advanced to the allies. The deficit was placed at $6,1190,000,000.

The total financial assistance given the allies is $1,565,000,000 against an estimate of $1,772,500,000.

The daily expenditures of the government is $25,000,000. The expenditures for the army and navy and the ministry of munitions as well as for miscellaneous war supplies total $5,750,000,000, or $15,000,000 daily.

INCREASE IN TAXES.

Deduct the advances made to the allied governments and the war expenditures are then $17,750,000 for England alone. The maximum income tax is placed at five shillings.

The tax on unearned incomes up to $2,500 will be increased to two shillings three pence, on incomes of from $2,500 to $5,000, a tax of two shillings six pence per pound.

An embargo on luxuries is contained in the budget.

In addition to the blow at luxurious living the budget proposes new taxes which will greatly increase the burden under which the British people are already laboring. Extraordinary care was taken by the cabinet to proportion the new taxes so that a proportionate share would fall upon all classes and to prevent an unequal burden upon the poor.

AMERICANS ON TORPEDOED VESSELS

By SYDNEY B. CAVE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, April 4.—There were four Americans aboard the steamship Berwindale, which was sunk off the Irish coast on March 16, according to the United States consul at Cork.

The American consul reported that the ship had been torpedoed, but that all the Americans were saved. There were also Americans on board the British bark Benjamin which was sunk by a submarine while on her way to England with a cargo of wheat.

The Benjamin was not armed, and according to a dispatch to a maritime agency, she was sunk without warning. The Americans on board joined the ship's crew before she sailed from Seattle.

GIRL HELD IN $2,200 AS 'LURE' IN 'HOLDUP'

After being lured into a doorway on Beacon street early today by a pretty young woman, Alexander Lang, of No. 229 Elm street, Cambridge, was set upon by three men, one of them said to be the husband of the girl, and an attempt made to rob him of his jewelry and money. Only the timely arrival of police officers on the scene, who placed the young woman and her alleged accomplices under arrest, prevented the scheme to rob the man from being successful.

Mrs. Mary Fenton, eighteen, her husband, William Fenton, thirty-one, both living at No. 24 Everett street, Somerville, Joseph Soisky of Cambridge, and John Byrne, twenty-two, of No. 7 Harding street, Cambridge, were all held for the Grand Jury today as a result of the affair, the girl in $2,000 and the men in $2,000 each.

According to the story told by the police, Mrs. Fenton, who is very good looking and stylish, met Lang on a downtown street early today. The couple started up Beacon street, while unknown to Lang, Mrs. Fenton's husband and Byrne followed at some distance to the pair.

Lang and the girl stopped into the doorway of No. 5 to talk. The other two are alleged to have come up and set upon Lang. Lang's cries were heard by Patrolmen Curran, Fox and Patton, all of the Court square station, who heard the cries and ran to the scene of the holdup.

MARTIN RE-ELECTED MAYOR OF MONTREAL

Montreal, April 4—Frederic Martin, M. P., working as a cigar maker, was yesterday re-elected mayor of Montreal for the next two years, defeating Alderman Lapointe, leader of the council and controller Duncan McDonald, former tramways manager. F. W. Villeneuve and A. Guy Ross were elected controllers. Martin's vote was 33,247, McDonald's 28,306, Lapointe's 16,566.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

Victrola

The instrument of the world's greatest artists

It is natural that in the musical world there should be singers and instrumentalists whose transcendent art places them in the forefront of their profession.

These artists have attained their commanding positions by reason of their superb artistry, and it is no mere coincidence that they have chosen the Victrola as the instrument to carry their sublime art into the home with the utmost fidelity.

The Victrola is the greatest of all musical instruments not only because it brings you the exact renditions of the world's famous artists, but because it has through sheer merit and through world-wide recognition by millions of music-lovers earned this high honor the artists have conferred upon it.

Any Victor dealer will gladly show you the complete line of Victors and Victrolas—$20 to $400—and play the music you know and like best, which is the only way for you to personally judge its capabilities of satisfying your musical longings.

Victor Talking Machine Co., Camden, N. J.

Important warning. Victor Records can be safely and satisfactorily played only with Victor Needles or Tungs-tone Styles on Victors or Victrolas. Victor Records cannot be safely played on machines with jeweled or other reproducing points.

DINNERS TO SOLONS IN R. R. FIGHT

That many members of the Legislature who voted to repeal the Boston & Maine reorganization bill have been eating at Young's Hotel at the expense of certain minority stockholders, was admitted today by Attorney Conrad W. Crooker, paid legislative agent for the Minority Stockholders' Association.

Fifteen "little dinners" have been given to members of the House and Senate. At each of these dinners either Mr. Crooker or F. B. Streeter, executive officer of the association, has advanced "the reasons" why the reorganization bill should be repealed.

The repeal bill came up in the House again today. The sixteenth "little dinner" will be given at Young's tonight.

"Who is paying for these dinners?" Mr. Crooker was asked today.

"The minority stockholders, I suppose," he said.

"How much have they cost?"

DOESN'T KNOW COST.

"I don't know as that is anybody's business" Mr. Crooker retorted. "As a matter of fact, I don't know."

"Why, what's wrong about that?" Mr. Crooker demanded. "I suppose nothing was said about it until they found we had more than fifty votes in the House.

"Representative Frost of Somerville has been inviting the members for us. We told him to invite anybody he wanted to.

"Mr. Streeter or some other vice-president of the association has always presided. We told them the reasons why the Boston & Maine reorganization bill should be repealed and we were careful to impress upon them that they were free to do what they thought best in the matter."

How many dinners have you given?" Mr. Crooker was asked.

"About fifteen," he said. "We're going to give another one tonight, drop in and see us if you can."

The charge is being made at the State House that the House members were reached "through their stomachs."

DINNERS A HABIT.

Dinners seems to be a habit with the Legislature. Simon Swig, whose status in the House is still undecided, broke into the limelight through that "champagne dinner" at his Summer place near Newport. Charles H. Innes of Ward 19 gave a dinner the night the big taxation reform measure was killed by the Senate, and now comes Mr. Crooker and the minority stockholders, including William H. Lawrence of Medford.

"But you're not going to have a big slam about this?" Mr. Crooker asked.

The House of Representatives yesterday tipped over the report of the Committee on Railroads and substituted the repeal by a vote of 116 to 74.

It was unexpected. When the excitement subsided the news about those "little dinners" leaked out.

It also became known that a few weeks ago Mr. Crooker invited a State Senator out to dinner, but President Wells advised Mr. Crooker that, insofar as he was concerned, there would be no Senate dinners.

Crooker and Frost then began to invite them in little groups.

Mr. Lawrence and other minority stockholders fought against the reorganization bill last year. They came into the Legislature this session with their bill to repeal the reorganization measure. The Senate voted against it, but, to the surprise of most people, the repeal bill was successful in the House yesterday.

Woman Needs All Her Strength

Keeping house is hard enough when well. The woman who has a bad back, pains, nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, has a hard task, for the family cares and tasks never let up.

Probably it's all the kidney trouble and not the many children, or woman's weakness. Strengthen the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, used and recommended by women the world over. They are just as harmless as they are effective, and may be used for children with weak kidneys, too.

East Boston Proof

Mrs. J. D. Van Warr, 75 Saratoga St., says: "I suffered terribly for years from my kidneys. My back was always aching and often was so stiff and sore that I could hardly bend one way or the other. I had much pains through my back that I was in bed for four months. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and the trouble made me very nervous. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

GALA THRONG GREETS OPERA

Metropolitan Company Sings Russian Work Splendidly in Opera's First Production Here

By FRED J. McISAAC.

WHEN THE CURTAIN ROSE, presumably upon the first act of "Boris Godunoff" at the Boston Opera House last night the audience saw, instead, an inspiring tableau.

Seven beautiful women draped in the colors of seven great nations, stood en pyramid, and the apex of the pyramid was Geraldine Farrar, as the Goddess of Liberty.

While the audience was whispering its surprise the orchestra struck into "The Star Spangled Banner" and Geraldine Farrar sang it with all the fervor of a true patriot.

It was Miss Farrar's idea to begin the season of Metropolitan Opera in Boston with the national anthem. She contributed her services to her townsfolk, tho she was not in the cast of the evening.

Incidentally lots of people did not know who she was since the incident was not programmed.

The opening performance drew a very extraordinary audience. If there were vacant seats they were not visible, and the turnout for "Boris," an opera comparatively unknown, must have delighted the management. People who buy opera tickets are inclined to shy at novelties, particularly when great names are not announced for the cast.

OPENING OPERA A SPECTACULAR WORK.

Just the same, the selection of "Boris Godunoff" to commence the season was astute. It is a work which is spectacular for a long list of principals and yet possesses no opening for the operatic drawing cards, Farrar and Caruso.

I presume the management figures that the operatic "Boris" will attract box office star and they reasoned rightly.

"Boris," however, is a big novelty for Boston, one of the most interesting works given by the Metropolitan in recent years; and the singers who took part in the performance are among the best artists in the company. Oberg and Braslau are two contralton who have already become popular in New York; Didur, Segurola and Rothier are three famous basses, and Althouse has a promising young tenor.

What a weird operatic line up, however; two contraltos, three basses and one tenor (an insignificant tenor part, too)! Mourssorgsky was not even conventional in the voices he employed.

Who was Mourssorgsky? He was a Russian, who wrote music without bothering to learn any of the rules. He was one of a group of young Slavs who called themselves the neo-Russians, and of whom Rimsky-Korsakoff, Balakireff, Cui and Borodin were prominent members. He was born in 1839 and died in 1881.

SCORE BIZARRE AND ORIGINAL.

He wrote "Boris" in 1868, being inspired by Pushkin's drama on the subject of the ancient Czar. At that time he had picked up a working knowledge of music, and, as his mind was teeming with striking aira and extraordinary tonal effects, he felt qualified to compose.

Rimsky-Korsakoff, a much more cultured composer, edited "Boris" many years afterwards, and toned out the original crimes against harmony and counterpoint. Even so, he left it, there is plenty of evidence of the crudeness and coarseness of the workmanship, but also of genius, the wildness, bizarreness and unquestioned originality of the score.

The story of "Boris" as told in the opera is as follows:

Boris Godunoff was regent of Russia during the reign of the Czar Feodor, son of Ivan the Terrible. Ivan and son of Ivan was the heir apparent and Boris conspired to have him murdered. With the death of Feodor Boris ascended the throne.

At the time he was admired and loved by the people, and affected to refuse the crown when first offered him, as Caesar did. The crowning of Boris in Moscow brings the prologue to a close.

BORIS HAUNTED BY HIS CRIME.

The opening of the first act discloses the old monk Pimenn, in his cell in a monastery writing a chronicle. He knows of the murder of Dimitri, the murdered crown prince, and Gregory, a novice, hears the tale.

The people are beginning to be dissatisfied with Boris, and Gregory conceives the daring scheme of impersonating the murdered prince. Boris, meanwhile, is haunted by his crime even in the company of his young children, and finally the false Dimitri, has fallen in love with Marina, and she is influenced by a zealous Jesuit to persuade her lover that the nation should leave the street in order to fight for Dimitri.

Dimitri raises an army, but the people do not desert Boris yet, although his hallucinations are becoming common talk. The assembly of the nobles threatens to depose the false Dimitri when they get him. In the meantime Boris gives an audience to the old monk Pimenn, whose piety causes the Czar to weep. Dying he implores forgiveness of God, and points out his son to the people as their Czar.

The love interest in "Boris" is very slight, and the female parts have not much importance. It is a grim, gloomy opera, the story of which is narrated in a scattering disconnected manner that doesn't make for intense dramatic interest.

FINE INTERLUDE IN KREMLIN SCENE.

Some of the best music in the opera is given to the chorus. The choruses are amazing examples of originality and unconventionality, but they are gorgeous, splendid, unparalleled. The best lyric moments occur in Marina's Garden, where Dimitri and Marina enjoy an impassioned love duet. There is entrancing ballet music in this scene.

There is a charming interlude in the Kremlin scene, when the nurse plays with young Feodor. And intensely dramatic is the haunting of Boris by the orchestra in the second act.

"Boris" is a great bass role. Didur possesses a small but agreeable basso, which fares badly against the heavy orchestra.

It was a privilege to hear the rich and mellow contralto of Margarete Ober in her one scene, as Marina. As Dimitri, Paul Althouse displayed a fine virile tenor of the German type. He is, however, an American.

Sophie Braslau, as young Feodor, appeared to be an admirable contralto. Marie Mattfeld, as the Innkeeper, sang her one song well, and Maria Duchene gave the song of the gnat with excellent tone and spirit.

CARUSO SINGS IN "BOHEME" TONIGHT.

De Segurola as Varlaam was amusing enough but vocally incapable of the role. Rothier was impressive as the old monk, Pimenn.

Polacco, the new chief conductor, made his best impression. He held principals, chorus and orchestra well in hand.

Tonight "Boheme" is the bill with Caruso, Alda, De Luca and Cajatti.

Three of the fine cast of "Boris." From left to right, Sophie Braslau, Adamo Didur and Lenora Sparkes. Didur sang the Czar role, and Miss Braslau sang Teodore and Miss Sparkes, Xenia.

Boston Society Leaders Turn Out in Force

By MRS. C. H. WASHBURN.

SOCIETY was well represented at the opening performance of the smart opera season. As befitted the Lenten period, black was the predominating color of the gowns and there were few jewels worn. Mrs. William C. Endicott, Jr., was the only one wearing a diamond tiara, and her gown was of the prevailing black.

Mrs. Hall McAllister had one of the most interesting box parties, her guests including her daughter, Miss Louise McAllister, and Nevil Ford, whose engagement has just been announced, and they received many congratulations from the numerous callers. Mrs. McAllister was in black and her daughter in pink chiffon with pailleted embroidery and she carried a bunch of violets.

Herbert M. Sears had a family party including his older daughter, Mrs. Bayard Warren, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Sears, whose daughter, Miss Miriam Sears, was of another party. Mrs. Warren was in orchid pink taffeta with lace; Mrs. Sears in white liberty, brocaded in gold, and Miss Sears in yellow satin, flowered in gold.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bowliker were with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Moras and their daughter, Miss Constance Moras, Mrs. Moras' gown was of silver gray brocade with pailleted embroidery; Miss Moras' of green and gold brocade with green tulle over white satin, and Mrs. Bowliker's of white satin, the overdress of black lace and chiffon.

MR. AND MRS. JORDAN ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich and Mr. and Mrs. Franz Zerrahn were with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jordan. Mrs. Goodrich was in primrose satin and tulle; Mrs. Zerrahn in old gold liberty covered with black tulle, and Mrs. Jordan in green taffeta and tulle.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Webster had a family party in their box, including Mrs. Webster's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Hovey. The hostess wore orchid and gold brocade, and Mrs. Hovey green taffeta and chiffon combined with white.

Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, who was in pink velvet, had with her her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Cameron Bradley, whose gown was of white and gold brocade with gold lace; and Mrs. Henry S. Hunnewell, who was in darkest blue satin and chiffon, had her three daughters with her. Mrs. Nelson Slater Bartlett, Jr. (Christine Hunnewell), was in pale blue liberty and chiffon; Miss Gertrude Hunnewell in darkest blue tulle, and Miss Mary Hunnewell in buttercup taffeta, with touches of turquoise blue.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Burnham and Miss Nina Burnham made a party. Miss Annie Warren was with Mrs. Charles A. Kidder. Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Herrick had their daughters, Miss Ruth and Miss Katharine Herrick, and with Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Everett were their sons, Richard and H. C. Everett, Jr., and their niece, Miss Ellen Tufts.

MISS ELLEN TUFTS IN BLUE VELVET

Mrs. Burnham was in black, her daughter in cerise satin and chiffon; Miss Warren in brown taffeta covered with tulle edged with gold embroidery; Mrs. Kidder, white satin, the over-dress of black tulle covered with iridescent paillettes; Mrs. Herrick in black and her daughters in simple gowns, one pink and the other green; Mrs. Everett in cloth of silver with black tulle, and Miss Tufts in turquoise blue velvet.

Others there were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott, Mrs. Abbott wearing mauve satin with much white lace; Mr. and Mrs. John S. Ames, the latter in palest yellow liberty with suggestion of green; Mrs. Boylston Beal in blue brocade with touches of turquoise blue, her sister, Mrs. Stephen Van Rensselaer Crosby, in black taffeta and tulle, with rhinestone and jet embroidery; Mrs. James Jackson, in black, with her daughter, Mrs. George C. Lee, who was in white and gold brocade, with pailleted lace; and Mrs. George B. Shattuck with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Richmond, both of them in black.

Also Mrs. George Lee in blue flowered silk with gold lace, her daughter, Miss Florence Lee, in black; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Schofield, the latter in yellow and gold brocade; Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Sears and Miss Evelyn Sears, Mrs. Sears in palest green taffeta flowered in gold, her sister-in-law wearing black jetted tulle; Mrs. John L. Thorndike, in mauve taffeta with self-toned tulle, her daughter Miss Alice Thorndike, in green liberty and tulle, and Mrs. George S. Silsbee, in black jetted gown and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Silsbee, in green and gold.

MRS. MUDGETT IN PEARL GRAY

Mr. and Mrs. George Oliver Crocker, Dr. and Mrs. John L. Amee and Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Mudgett were in various box parties. Mrs. Crocker's gown was of wine-colored satin; Mrs. Amee of burnt orange satin and tulle, with paillettes, and Mrs. Mudgett's of pearl gray embroidered crepe de chine.

Mrs. Samuel D. Warren and Miss Sylvia Warren, Mrs. R. J. Lang, Mrs. Henry P. Quincy, Miss Edith Smith, Mrs. Francis R. Allen, Mrs. Frederick Shattuck and Mrs. William Boone Emmons were of the number in black; Mrs. Charles J. Rich in crimson satin and her daughter, Miss Ruth Rich, in green tulle with gold embroidery; Mrs. S. Reed Anthony, in white point d'esprit and lace with a corsage of mauve orchids, and Miss Alison Haughton, in green brocaded velvet.

Miss Mary Tappan wore black lace over white; Miss Pauline Pollard, black and silver brocade; Mrs. John H. Morison, gray satin; her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Samuel E. Morrison, mauve taffeta flowered in pink; Miss Mary Vaughn, pink satin partially veiled with gray chiffon; Miss Ruth Foster, white satin and tulle; Miss Mary Wheelwright, green taffeta with overdress of tulle; Mrs. Frederick King, white and gold brocade; Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield, gray satin veiled with black tulle; Mrs. David M. Little, white tulle over pink satin; Mrs. William Whitman, green and gold brocade, and her daughter, Mrs. Pollard, in black taffeta flowered in gold.

Mrs. Edwin Arthur Shuman wore a beautiful frock in white and gold with rose garniture.

Others there were Mrs. James H. Proctor, Mrs. Edward L. Osgood and Miss Fanny Osgood, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Robbins, Mrs. Nathan Matthews, Mrs. Roger Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Warren B. P. Weeks, Mrs. Albert Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whittier, Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel K. Snow with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Little; Mrs. Theodore G. Bremer, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sumner Townsend, Mrs. Lyneham Crocker, Mrs. Godfrey Cabot and Miss Eleanor Cabot, Miss Polly Cunningham with Miss Dorothy Bolles, Mr. and Mrs. William Dana Orcutt, Mrs. Andrew Webster, the Misses Alice Daland, Margaret Codman, Katharine Dorr and Marion Howland, Colonel Frederick G. King, William W. Vaughn, William Johnson, A. Wadsworth Longfellow and Samuel Eliot Morison.

FIND NEW WOMAN IN PLOT

New York, April 4.—The center of the "K. Adams" telegram that mysterious message which brought about the care of Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, a hornet's nest of intrigue and crime has been positively identified by the District Attorney's office.

The eight words flashed to Percy Peck, warning him that his father had been murdered, was sent by a casual friend of Peck and Mrs. Waite. That the sender was a woman, in slight degree a confidant of the dentist's trustful young bride, has also been learned.

PREDICTS A SURPRISE.

This woman, the authorities say, has not figured to the case in any way, directly or indirectly. She was located by Detective John Coniff, Assistant District Attorney Dooling said.

The identity of the sender of the "K. Adams" telegram came to me with as much surprise as it will come to the public when I am permitted to make known the name.

Motives of the very highest order prompted the sender. There is now no possible line of criminality in the dispatch.

The wire was written in person, by the sender's own handwriting and was delivered by messenger to the Western Union branch office in the Grand Central terminal.

So certain is the police that the telegram was part of a diabolical plotting scheme that we called in counsel of experts to help us solve the riddle. Now that we know and have talked with the person who sent the wire, the explanation seems simple.

The sender of the wire had plotted himself for the present not to reveal the secret of the crime, through fear of notoriety and prevented the person passing unpunishable to the police.

DOOLING TELLS FACTS

Pressed for further particulars, the assistant District Attorney said:

Assume that you were a tenant in the fine apartment house.

Assume that you knew Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warren Waite casually.

Assume that you knew of the monthly visits of Mrs. Hannah Morris Peck early in the morning on Sunday, April 2.

Assume that you learned of the unexpected death of John H. Peck about two weeks ago.

Assume that you knew that just six weeks almost to the very day previous to the death of Mrs. Peck's married son, Percy, that the latter's wife died and that he had been stripped to him.

Assume that you are notified to go to Percy Peck.

"Suspicion aroused? Demand and subpoena? Grand jury? Indictment? Conviction? Sing Sing?

Mr. Dooling would not be induced to say more than that the "K. Adams" mentality has been fully established and the assertion has been offered that it had its origin in the Middle West, the home of which was Mrs. Katherine Adams.

FUND MISSING $1,200.

Mr. Dooling spoke another announcement of importance. This concerned the $1,200 missing from the funds of the Bible Society of Grand River Knee by Dr. Waite in an effort to hush up the murder of Mr. Peck.

We have located the $1,200. Was in this office today. Coming up now safely any day. Money, however, was not the motive for murder by Knee in the saddle of Long Island. Dr. Waite's wife and Miss Catherine Peck this week.

John S. Potter, the Lexington axe murderer, was referred to by Waite as the suggestor of the "hush fund," was not in the office of the District Attorney's office today.

Potter is said to be now ready to tell the truth in connection with the statement covering his conversations with Waite and his relations with Kane.

The present plan of District Attorney Dooling is to have a statement of Dr. Waite tomorrow or Thursday. The prisoner is still ill, but he was able yesterday to leave his cot in Bellevue for the first time. He strolled about his big room in the hospital.

EXAMINES FAMILY DOCTOR.

Mr. Dooling has examined at length Dr. Gordon Bell Peck, who attended Mr. Peck in the closing days of his life, and Miss Margaret Lynch, who was Mrs. Peck's nurse. Mr. Dooling said:

"We have had an impressive story that could help on clinch our case against Dr. Waite for the murder of his mother-in-law. She said Mrs. Peck appeared normally for a few hours before her death.

"Then suddenly, about twelve hours before her death, her aspirations, Miss Catherine Peck, the dentist's sister, came to see her for an hour. She was vivacious and lively. Planned an automobile ride with her daughter for the next day.

"Several times previously she had complained about pains in her stomach, but we don't know what it was that caused these.

She seemed much better than I had seen her for some time. When I left her at 8 o'clock Saturday night. Six hours later she was dead."

Michigan Vote in Doubt; Ford Sweeps District

By International News Service.

Detroit, Mich., April 4.—Mr. Ford's Favorite son candidate undoubtedly has been elected in the Democratic primaries held in this district, garnered fifteen more votes than William Alden Smith got in 1912.

Other returns from the State are turning monotonous for Mr. Ford, but the total of votes still piling up is kind for Smith and is steadily cutting down the Ford majority. As this morning the result could not be determined until late tonight or tomorrow.

The contest for the Democratic national committeeman is also close, between the present committeeman, Woodbridge N. Ferris, and Edward Doyle.

President Wilson was the only candidate on the Democratic presidential preferential ballot.

The vote was light all over the State.

Revenue Men Involved in Tobacco Plot

By International News Service.

Washington, April 4.—Treasury Department officials today said they had evidence that deputy internal revenue collectors in the employ of the cigarette manufacturers and dealers defrauded the government out of more than $20,000,000 in revenue.

Information given the department by Attorney Carl F. Whitney of New York was that many tobacco dealers and manufacturers, under a plot to obtain investigations and obtain the names of the deputy officials involved, the department's information is that the deputy collectors, existing for years and that the sub officials of the department have received a total of $10,000,000 that will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

FLOOD THREATENS IN MERRIMACK VALLEY

Haverhill, April 4.—Freshet conditions in the Merrimack River prevail here today as the result of a much above normal rainfall last night, and it is feared that serious damage will result. Water from merchants on Merrimack Square and from cellars in the lower sections of the city is reported in the hills, with the report that the river is seven feet above normal.

WOMAN KILLED AT WINTER HILL STATION

Mrs. Alice G. Poe, a widow, of 10 Prescott street, Somerville, was struck and instantly killed today by a central Massachusetts train near the Winter Hill station, Somerville, while crossing the main line of the railroad at the station. The train was an express, going south, in charge of Conductor Hall. The woman is said to have been struck by the engine. She was 45 years old and is survived by a son.

ORPET TO FACE GIRL ACCUSER

Wilmington, Ill., April 4.—Among the witnesses summoned for the murder trial of William H. Orpet, whose testimony is awaited with lively interest, is Miss Constance Darrie, who was the principal witness against Orpet when he was convicted here of the murder of Miss Lee Ling Song, Chinese missionary to Burma, in Burma Woods.

Miss Darrie, a young Orpet is set for trial Monday morning, April 10, in the second degree murder case. The State says the defendant will commit suicide."

After a vain effort to have the indictment of Orpet quashed on the ground of insufficient evidence, the county board of the University of Wisconsin, the defendant is prepared to battle for his life in open court.

Orpet is said to be one of the chief witnesses for the state. If the witness tells her testimony will, the defense says, be destructive of the prosecution's theory that Orpet killed Miss Song because she refused to marry him.

Miss Davis is eighteen years old, with big blue eyes which have been described as the dreamy eyes of the expressive adjective "honest." Prosecuting attorneys were confident that her mind shown never committed suicide, they say.

Orpet met all her ignorance with Marian. When she first became entangled with Will Orpet she did not know enough to know what would happen.

Then she learned her that, if anything went wrong they would surely be married but she did not know what to do. The defense can muster.

"I have something to tell you, Jo," she said, and then she told me right out of the feelings she had had with Orpet.

Miss Davis dwelt upon the loneliness of her life in Lake Forest, where Marian lived in such a lonesome place. Marian was the only girl there in Lake Forest she had to walk through the woods and it was a long walk. Will Orpet was the only man for the other girls with whom she went. Marian knew that Will was only out for his fun, with no fault speeches, to make Marian love him.

"I don't know why Will had told her and she trusted him. I know Marian that moment suicide she never thought of it. She went back to September, when her fate was so unfortunately sealed.

"More than once she told me that she no longer loved Orpet and that, as much as she cared for him, it was all right, she meant to give him up, once and for all.

LILLIAN RUSSELL, THE EVER YOUTHFUL, AT KEITH'S

"I WENT on the stage when I was sixteen," says Lillian Russell in an oratorical autobiography at Keith's. And just as she seems going to reveal the awful secret of her age, she concludes the sentence with "and I'm sixteen yet, thank you!"

She did, however, reveal the secret of her youth. "It's work, work," she said. "You know I'm tired two years ago to-day, as I thought, in idleness. But I soon had to find something to do. I began writing for the papers on 'How to Stay Young,' and to-day behold, it taught me the secret. Now I do stay young and here I am back active, working harder than ever—matinee performances and seven newspaper articles a week.

And she made the remark about "sweet sixteen" quoted above.

And but for the "am-boo picnic," as they say in real classy society, Lillian has youth, as you long it is now, adays. You know a man used to be as old as he felt, but a woman as she looked. But in these days of suffrage and the trial lawyer you have to judge us all by the same standard and we're all young as long as we can get away with it.

Lillian delivers a very witty, certain speech. It would be a sin to spoil your enjoyment of it by retelling any more of it than quoted above. The speechlet is a very essential part of her performance. She sings some entertaining songs and wears a tantalizing gown. She received a floral shower and much enthusiastic applause at the opening performances. She is ably assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waller.

The bill at Keith's this week is a capital one. Leipzig, the card conjurer, gives an excellent exhibition of wizardry. Elsie Faust—Harry Fisher—and Dudley Douglas perform a whirlwind of smart songs and dances and Miss Fisher displays some exceptional gowns. Bessee and Baird have a delightfully droll Scotch sketch.

Sarah Padden and company perform in a really interesting one-act play entitled "The Little Shepherd of Bargain Shop." Most one-act plays won't do. But this one is out of the ordinary.

Ernie and Ernie have a surprising and most amusing sketch, entitled "Three Feet of Comedy." Violent and Scofield produce a novelty, "Helping Hubby." Robert Emmet Keane, the American Englishman, has an act full of vim, and Dewitt, Burns and Torrence are entertaining in "The Awakening of the Toys."

The finest Vitagraph furnishes an interesting series of up-to-date news pictures.

WALDRON'S CASINO—Jake Golden's Kewpie Frenchy Follies Burlesquers are at Waldron's Casino for the week, which means that the patrons of this popular theatre will have a most satisfying entertainment of burlesque and vaudeville. The show is of the essential comedian, pretty women, a snappy book, startling gowns, captivating dances and a costly outfit of scenery and costumes. Goldenberg has not neglected and he has given generously of his experience and good judgment. The result is a fast, thoroughly enjoyable show. The chief fun-makers are Will Fox and Harry Stewart, in the role of proprietors of a big department store in New York city who are always on the lookout for girls in search of wives. There are plenty of ladies, and the situations are many in both travesties, especially the scene of the beauty parlor in the gay capital of France. Harry Stewart, as a "Dope" role, is a fine assistant to the comedians, while pretty Kewpies assisted by Dolly Morrissey, Helen Van Buren, Alice Flemming, Blanche Stewart, Walter Merrill and Ed Farrell, the Columbia Trio and a lively lot of pretty girls in the ensemble. The book of the burlesques is by Don Roth, and the greater part of the music by Herbert Von Tilzer. Several of the dancing ensembles are of much beauty, the costuming and the scenery throughout are handsome and artistic, a credit deserved to the end. There are daily matinees at the Casino with special bargain prices for the women patrons.

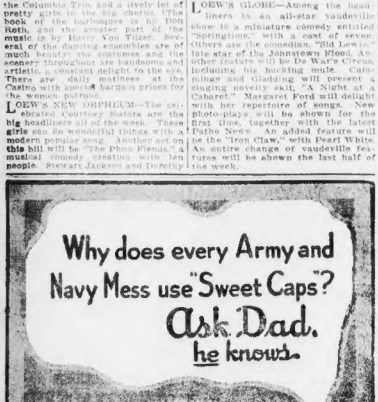
LOEW'S NEW ORPHEUM—The celebrated Courtney Sisters are the big headliners all of the week. These girls can do wonderful things with a modern violin, and they will on this bill will be "The Phun Fiends," a musical comedy creation with ten people. Stewart, Jackson and Dorothy Wahl will offer a singing and comedy skit, "Before the Theatre." Isay Ferguson, not connected with the Ferguson Sisters, offers clever monologue. Prince Rosini, Peter Baginski and Ernest Edmond and Ruth Grant will present a musical novelty. Franklin Batie, Margaret Edwards, Rose Quinn, Herman Tenburg and Bessie Dunbar will be in the Orpheus Dumb Show. The bill will consist of "The Stolen Kidney," fourteen clever South sisters, etc. The orchestra will play a delightful program, with Vera de Bassini, the Polish Nightingale, favorite with the Boston opera audiences, as soloist. The bill is a strong one, with each act a striking background. There will be bargain matinees on Wednesday and Friday, and Sunday there will be a special day morning this week at the Orpheus Theatre box office.

GEORGE ARLISS is a new addition to the stars at the Hollis Street Theatre for this season. It is not to be inferred from that statement that he is a stranger to the patrons of that house, for he has appeared there many times and always with the greatest of success. The new play is the work of Edward Knoblauch, well-known to Bostonians from "Milestones," "Kismet," "Mumsie," "Kismet" and other successful plays. Mr. Arliss will have the strongest company he has ever brought to Boston, and among those who will support the star at the Hollis Street Theatre are Margery Maude, Kathleen Comegys, Cyril Maude, the star of "Grumpy" at the Hollis last week; Mrs. Arliss, Florence Auer, Jennette Lee, Harry Davenport, Charles Harbury, Noel Tearle, Edgar Kent and others.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—The first of the Harvard Dramatic Society plays will be given at the Park Square Theatre on Tuesday, April 4. The program will include two pieces from an Egyptian ballet. The cast will be made up of professional talent. "The Child," a dramatic playlet by Miss Jane L. Seagrave, is one of the two pieces to be staged. The piece deals with a grim hand the horrors of the present European struggle. The scene of the play takes place in a modern Jewish home in a village somewhere in Poland. Seats for the play are now on sale at the box office and will be arranged by F. C. Marshall Wood. A large number of seats will be placed on sale at a popular scale of prices ranging from 25 cents to $1.50.

PARK THEATRE—Hall Caine's immortal love story, "The Eternal City," featuring Pauline Frederick, will be shown in photoplay form beginning with the matinee to-day. It made the program at the Park Theatre this week, and affords a rare treat to all lovers of the best. No amazing photo spectacle which marks a new era in dramatic picturization. For the first time in the history of motion pictures, the Vatican tunnels, the Colosseum, the Pope's palace, the Castle Angelo's and many other historic and impressive spots in the Imperial City have been brought to the motion picture screen production. No summary of this wonderful production can describe the astounding power and charm of the subject. The pictorial version of Hall Caine's famous novel of modern Rome by Thomas Cushing Hepworth, Seton Merriman's novel of the same name. The play deals with the romance of a beautiful girl of noble birth, oppression, the result of the efforts of a prominent Roman family to crush Sweet plays the part of a Princess of the royal household who in the chain of circumstances which follow, after discovering the plot of the Prince, falls in love with the latter, and she is supported by a cast of unusual excellence. There are several short reels, and the orchestra will be found to be a most popular feature of the bill, a distinct novelty being the directing from the organ bench, while playing the grand organ, by Arthur Martell.

LOEW'S GLOBE—Among the headliners in an all-star vaudeville show is a minature comedy entitled "Springtime," with a cast of seven. Others are the comedian, "Old Lewis," late star of the Johnstown Flood. Another feature will be De War's Circus, including his buffalo herd. Cartlidges and Gladding will present a singing novelty skit, "A Night at a Cabaret." Margaret Ford will delight with her repertoire of songs. New photo-plays will be shown for the first time here, together with the latest Pathe News. An added feature will be the "Iron Claw," with Pearl White. An entire change of vaudeville features will be shown the last half of the week.



Did you see our salesman in your city prove by actual burning test the purity of SWEET CAPORAL Cigarettes?

Coming Events

SHUBERT THEATRE—Next week the Shuberts will present their latest and biggest "Winter Garden triumph, "A World of Pleasure," with the following galaxy of musical comedy stars: Clifton Crawford, Thomas Conkey and Ted Doner, Mlle. Modiste, Diamond and Brennan, Richard Carle, Gertrude Vanderbilt, Franklin Batie, Margaret Edwards, Rose Quinn, Herman Tenburg and Bessie Dunbar. The Winter Garden chorus of 125, the most of whom compose the most stunning beauty show in Boston, will be in some ever from New York. Eight big scenic effects each one a striking background. There will be bargain matinees on Wednesday and Friday, and Sunday there will be a special day morning this week at the Shubert Theatre box office.

GEORGE ARLISS is a new addition to the stars at the Hollis Street Theatre for this season. GAIETY THEATRE—A real entertainment is the production offered at the Gaiety this week by the people of the Twentieth Century Maids. The show, as the title suggests, is an up-to-the-minute affair with plenty of vivacity, diversion, fun and thrills. It is unlike most burlesque shows, in that it offers a real book with plenty of action, and some good acting at times, and Harry Coyne is the head of the cast. He is clever as ever and is ably supported by Jim Barton and both are backed by a cast of well known comedy experts. There is a chorus, also essential to this particular piece, Man-Girl-Bottle-Bird, which discloses many complicated scenes which afford more than the ordinary outbursts of laughter, while not overstepping the borderline of legitimate fun. The beauties are as well represented by the Cheslegh sisters, Irene and Julia, and Miss Dorothy Dare, three talented young women who sing and dance to the full contentment of the audience. The melodies in the show are swingy, magnetic and full of enchantment. In connection with the various situations some of the most popular song hits are introduced, while special attention has been given to the different ensembles.

EXETER STREET THEATRE—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Pauline Ward appears in "For the Defence," and Mary Miles Minter appears in "Enemy of Stocks Nest." Thursday, Friday and Saturday Mary Pickford in "Such a Little Queen" and Constance Collier in "The Code of Marcia Gray" will be seen. Burton Holmes travel pictures, Sidney Drew comedies, etc.

Plays That Remain

SHUBERT THEATRE—Last week of "Alone at Last," Lehar's merry comic opera, with Samaria, Parks, Conor, Atwell and a multitude of clever people.

COLONIAL THEATRE—"Ston, Look, Listen," the musical melange, headed by Ruby Deeves, did big business last week, and keeps up its second week most auspiciously.

HOLLIS ST. THEATRE—"Grumpy," the fascinating detective play, with the aged hero that Frank Dudley plays so wonderfully, begins its last week in Boston.

WILBUR THEATRE—"Hobson's Choice," that bright little comedy of English shopkeeping, has caught Boston beyond a doubt, and is likely to remain with us for some time.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—"Pixy Sister," in which William Hodge is starring, has scored a big popular hit, and crowded houses are the rule.

GREAT ACTING AND PUNCH IN 'THE LIE'

MARGARET ILLINGTON scored another triumph in the initial performance of "The Lie" at the Park Square Theatre last night. The play is from the pen of Henry Arthur Jones and is one of the best dramatic offerings presented in Boston this season. There is a punch in each of the four acts. The plot is gripping, the comedy real comedy, and the scenic effects are pleasing.

"The Lie" is a vehicle peculiarly well adapted to Margaret Illington's brilliant talent, and in it she reveals many of the qualities that have won for her the foremost of American stars. The big scene in the last act is one of the strongest of its kind ever staged in Boston. Miss Illington's splendid her audience at high tension. Bostonians from "Milestones" to "Kismet" and other successful plays. Mr. Arliss will have the strongest company he has ever brought to Boston, and among those who will support the star at the Hollis Street Theatre are Margery Maude, Kathleen Comegys, Cyril Maude, the star of "Grumpy" at the Hollis last week; Mrs. Arliss, Florence Auer, Jennette Lee, Harry Davenport, Charles Harbury, Noel Tearle, Edgar Kent and others.

Why Spring Brings Out Freckles and Eruptions

The sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or the tinge at this season is attributed by scientists to the "gastric cry," which is caused by active during the spring months. Where the skin is affected by this influence and will produce an ounce of common mercolized wax at any drug store, apply a little of it before retiring, like cold cream, she can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off next morning, flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in this way in a week or two, with all its defects. No bleach could so effectually remove freckles or blemishes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No pain or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.

In case of wrinkles which ask no oath the outer skin a solution of resolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel, bathe the face both which is wonderfully effective.—Advertisement.

MAY IRWIN IN SPRIGHTLY COMEDY

JELLY, inimitable and ever popular May Irwin came back to Boston last night bringing her newest "Irvinesque comedy, "23 Washington Square," which she offered at the Plymouth Theatre for the first time in Boston.

Both actress and play were given a cordial welcome—Miss Irwin because she has long held first place in the affection and admiration of Boston theatre-goers, and her play because it is one of the best she ever brought here.

The play tells the amusing adventures of Mrs. De Peyster, social leader, of No 23 Washington Square, and her housekeeper, Matilda (May Irwin). Mrs. De Peyster, owing to a sudden shortage of money, abandons a trip to Europe to remain secretly in her home. Her housekeeper alone knows the truth.

The fun of the play develops in their attempts to keep Mrs. De Peyster's presence from the knowledge of her family, friends and servants. Much of Miss Irwin's pleasing drollery predominates, of course, and no one knows how to do it better. She contributes a running fire of witty sayings and in addition dances several steps in her own inimitable way.

Miss Irwin's funmaking alone would be enough to carry the play to success, but there is also an excellent supporting company, which last night helped to win favor for "23 Washington Square."

Among the players in the company are Frances Gaunt, George Clark, Adrien Bowen, Charlotte Carter, Elizabeth Leonard Hollister, Joseph Woodburn, Julia Ralph, Max A. Meyer Henry Hanson and William Sully.

BOSTON THEATRE—"The Havoc," the great five-act picturization of the famous play of the same name, with Gladys Hanson in the principal role, is the star attraction at the Boston Theatre the first three days of this week. This is a sensational story of a railroad official whose wife falls in love with another man. Her husband, instead of becoming enraged, permits her to marry the other man, but stipulates that he shall be allowed to live with them, believing that he can win his wife back. He proves that the man is a scoundrel, the wife becomes repentant and, to pay for her sin, takes up her former position as stenographer in her former husband's office. There is a splendid supporting cast, and the play is beautifully produced. The vaudeville attractions are the Five Idanias, a great troupe of pretty girl acrobats; Kennedy and Burns, "Two Nuts and the Salesman," a comedy novelty; Brino Fong, playing the guitar, mandolin, violin and accordion; Howard Sisters, international entertainers, and Alexander Brothers, the novelty ball bouncers. A number of other features complete the bill, which runs continuously from 10 a. m. to 11:30 p. m. Commencing Thursday, a complete change of program will be given, headed by Ralph Dunbar's "Tennessee Ten."

FAUNTLEROY REVIVAL IS BIG HIT

"LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY," when it first appeared on the American stage, carried the theatre-going public of this country by storm, and has been exceeded by very few dramas in genuine popularity in its many revivals since that time. Its annual appearance at the Castle Square Theatre this week is no exception, judged by the large crowd which turned out last evening on its opening night, and which enjoyed this dramatization of Francis Hodgson Burnett's popular classic with keen relish and delight.

The popular William P. Carleton appeared as the gouty, cross Earl of Dorincourt. His played the part exceedingly well and was warmly applauded. John Craig was singularly fortunate in obtaining Miss Henrietta MacDannat to play the part of Lord Fauntleroy. Her characterization of this winsome little boy was very well done. Throughout the entire play she held the interest of the audience to a high pitch, particularly in the sorrowful scene of parting between mother and son.

Bertha Barnicoat is again seen in the part of Mrs. Errol. Lord Fauntleroy's mother. More and more is this popular Boston girl winning her way into the hearts of the regular Castle Square theatre-goers with her superb acting and winsome manner, particularly in this vehicle, which gives her a splendid opportunity of displaying her art.

Theodore Friebus appears well-fitted in the part of Mr. Haversham, a solicitor, while Donald Meek, as Mr. Hobbs, the grocer, supplied a humorous touch keenly relished. Miss Jennie Adams, as Dick, a bootblack; Miss Kate Mayhew, as Mary; Mrs. Viola Croly Sidney, as Minna; Al Roberts, as Wilkins, the groom; Monte Crane as James, a servant, and George Ernst, as Higgins, a farmer, were other members of the cast who provided good support to the principals. The entire cast was warmly and frequently applauded.

Soon We'll Know Their Real Names

Lew Dockstader, who wears big shoes and tells jokes, will be obliged to write his name, "George Alfred Clapp," on the hotel registers in this State if the "True Name" bill is passed by the present Legislature and signed by Governor McCall.

What a terrible blow to the profession!

The bill says that the judge "shall" impose a fine of not less than $25 upon any person who registers a false name at a hotel register.

The bill is not aimed at the theatrical profession, but, it seems, they can't escape it.

WISCONSIN VOTING TODAY ON SALOON

Milwaukee, April 4.—One hundred and eight Wisconsin cities, including some of the second largest in the State, are voting today on whether to oust or retain the saloons. Milwaukee is not contained in the list. Some of the largest cities voting are Ashland, Superior, the second city of the State; Pipon, Waupun, Delevan and Antigo. Both wets and drys claim victories.

LYNN MAN DIES OF FRIGHT AT SIGHT OF SURGEON'S KNIVES

Alexander Henderson died of fright at the sight of surgeon's instruments just as he was to be etherized for an operation at his home, No. 12 River street, Lynn, today, according to account of his death given by his wife, Mrs. Henderson said: "I am convinced that my husband died of fright. He was sixty years old. He had been operated upon once. When we told him that another operation was necessary he expressed great fear of undergoing it. He dreaded pain."

Mr. Henderson ran a splinter into the fourth finger of his left hand recently. When symptoms of blood poisoning appeared the finger was operated upon. The symptoms continued until it was believed necessary, as a preventive measure, to reopen the finger and scrape the bone. Arrangements were made to do this today at the Henderson home.

The patient was to be etherized. The necessary instruments were put out. An ether cone was prepared and the ether was to be administered when Mr. Henderson expired. His heart was weak and it is believed that it succumbed under the apprehension he felt.

Mr. Henderson was a shoe operative and one of the veteran members of the United Shoe Workers of the city.

TEN NAMED AS TRIAL FIREMEN

Mayor Curley today appointed ten new probationers in the fire department at an annual salary of $750 a year. The men are appointed to fill vacancies and on account of the organization of Ladder 14, a new company. The man at the head of the list is William O. Cheswell, whose father was for many years chief of the department. Following is the list of new appointees:

William O. Cheswell, Thomas P. Kiddall, Harold B. Howe, George L. Lyons, William L. Magee, William J. Whalen, Edward M. Maguire, William E. Bower, John M. Stanley and Timothy J. Keefe.

BIG BAY STATE MEN ENROLLED FOR CAMP

The list was made public today of the fifty-two Massachusetts men enrolled to attend the Military Training Camp, modelled on Plattsburg lines, which will open May 3 at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. The list includes Benjamin Joy, vice-president of the Shawmut National Bank; T. Jefferson Coolidge of last year's Harvard football team; Frederick Ayer, Jr., Allston Burr, Alonzo Dennis, Harris Livermore, Dunbar Lockwood, Samuel Mixter, Gordon C. Prince, Charles S. Bird, Jr., Samuel Prothingham, William L. Wood, C. Charles Dimond and Lawrence Grinnell.

BEVERIDGE STILL LOYAL TO INDIANA

Former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, does not intend to become a resident of Massachusetts. This became known today when he was asked the question as he was leaving his Beverly place, Selwood, for a trip to Virginia.

"I have been at Beverly Farms this Winter, to finish my works on the life of Chief Justice Marshall. My residence is in Indianapolis. I will keep it there," he said.

GIRLS! TRY IT! HAVE THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Every particle of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Draw a moist cloth through hair and double its beauty at once.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will remove the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—then soon lively new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Save your hair! Beautify it! You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.—Advertisement.

MISS ROSE GABORIAULT, Salem girl who denies Ernest Schiller's statement that she gave him financial aid before he made his wonderful single-handed capture of a British vessel and crew of fifty-six.

STATE'S FACTS IN BAFF CASE OUTLINED

New York, April 4.—Assistant District Attorney O'Malley, at the trial of Guiseppe Archiello, before Justice Shearn, for the murder of Barnet Hurwitz, in outlining the evidence to the jury at face value in payment of insurance, charged the killing was the outcome other obligations.

PLAN TRIAL OF SCHILLER AS PIRATE

Washington, D.C., April 4.—At a conference of the federal authorities today it was decided to have Chairman Hudson of Ernest Schiller at his native town, brought here from New York, if possible, to answer charges of piracy. Hudson is the German sympathizer who, single-handed, captured the British freighter Maiwood, and her crew at sea. In spite of news telegraphed from New York that Schiller might be released because he is insane, by alienists, who examined him at Bellevue Hospital, the federal authorities believe that the capture of the Maiwood is mentally irresponsible.

Instead of being arraigned in New York today as planned, Schiller was committed to jail pending the receipt of extradition papers from Delaware.

Although the Maiwood was captured outside of the three-mile limit, United States District Attorney Charles F. Curley and United States Commissioner W. H. Mahaffy, after reviewing the facts in the case, determined that a piracy charge could be lodged. Mr. Curley has already communicated with the authorities in New York in an endeavor to have Schiller returned to Wilmington. If successful, Schiller will be arraigned here.

ASK OPTION ON OIL AT SOUTH HADLEY

South Hadley, April 4.—Warden C. W. Pratt of the town farm has received a request for an option on a lease of the town land where oil was discovered bubbling from the ground a few days ago. The request for an option, which is conditional upon nothing found there in any commercial quantity, comes from two strangers, representing themselves as oil experts from Pennsylvania, who came here and made examination of the land.

CARRANZA READY TO REDEEM MONEY

By International News Service.

Washington, D.C., April 4.—Constitutionalist Minister Arredondo, representing Gen. Carranza, today issued a sweeping decree declaring the present constitutionalist money will not be redeemed, but will be exchanged "at the convenience of the government" for all issues of the Carranza government.

Why Gasoline Is High in Price

By Edward L. Doheny

President of Mexican Petroleum Company.

I HAVE given a great deal of study to the causes which brought about the increase in the selling price of gasoline. The opinion which I now hold is, that of all the staples the certain price of which has been greatly augmented within the last year or two there is no other staple the producers of which have such an undeniable right to the increase exacted of consumers.

The fortunes, fifty-three millions of dollars, invested in the production of petroleum have increased in value within one year on average more than 100 per cent. Those of those who have increased most in value are the fortunes of the relatively unimportant from interest. A great number of the items, however, are those of the small investor, the United States producers and many foreigners.

There is no doubt that the war in Europe has put off the supply of petroleum needed for the ordinary affairs of industry, and that reason alone has been sufficient to not only cause the increase in the selling price of such merchandise, but an increase in the cost of production and selling price of all merchandise.

OIL YIELD DECREASING.

It is also evident that the devastation of the war in the oil districts in Europe has caused a lessening of the world's supply of many staples, the consumption of which has not been checked, but to many it has been increased. Among these are certain forms of steel goods, paper goods and petroleum goods. The greater demand for these articles has been one of the causes for higher prices.

In the case of petroleum, however, the causes are different for the increase. The yield of oil is decreasing, in the first place. As districts may be discovered that will temporarily increase the potential daily production, but the old districts have lost the volume of their daily yields of a year ago.

A little over a year ago the great producing field of Oklahoma, together with the new Healton field in the southern part of the State, yielded oil at the rate of nearly 300,000 barrels daily. Today the production of the said fields has decreased to a very little more than 100,000 barrels daily. The other fields have decreased in similar proportion.

HALF NORMAL SUPPLY.

In brief, then, the supply of gasoline in the United States, as evidenced by the fact that daily production has not been diminished supply, is only about one half as great as was available but a year ago, and instead of being called upon to make up the deficiency.

A second article on gasoline by Mr. Doheny will appear in these columns in a few days.

MOLE ELECTED COMMANDER OF G. A. R.

The annual general encampment of the Massachusetts Department, G. A. R., opened today in Faneuil Hall, with the delegates present, and the annual reports of officers were read.

It was announced that net membership had increased during the year, and that the total membership was now 14,603.

JORDAN MARSH COMPANY—NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST HOUSEFURNISHING STORE—JORDAN MARSH COMPANY

The Spring Thought in Housefurnishings

NOW on the outer portal of the Spring 1916 season many will turn their thoughts to the furnishing of a new home or the refurnishing of the present domicile. To such, this great establishment, so famous for its housefurnishings of every kind, offers the very latest word in worthy merchandise at reasonable prices.

BACK of our remarkable success in the house-furnishing business stand two prominent factors—merchandise of character and service to the customer. The first has brought us the patronage, and the second has kept that patronage loyal to us. The Spring thought here is to strive to give better merchandise and more service than ever.

Draperies

New cool-colored draperies are here ready to beautify the summer home—plain white ones, also, many rich with real laces. Nowhere else in all New England will one find such beauty and such an assortment in connection with new Spring draperies.

Among the materials bidding fair for popularity are novelty lace, voile, etamines, marquisettes, madras, grenadine and new designs in muslin.

The furnished suite of rooms is now open for inspection.

Domestic Rugs

In spite of the scarcity of good rugs, due to the unsettled market, we are fortunate enough to receive preference among the manufacturers, and our new Spring lines are complete and attractive.

Some of the most popular summer rugs include Tadeless Grass Rugs, Scotch Heather Rugs, Wiltons Rugs, Kenberma Rugs and the new washable Klearfas rugs.

Special display of Summer House Furnishings in the Exhibition Room

Furniture

The light toned and cheerful spirit of summer is beginning to pervade our Big Furniture store. The designs are particularly handsome this season and many new novelties are seen.

Furniture for the porch, veranda and lawn has always been a strong feature of our appeal for public appreciation—and the charming and dainty summer furniture for summer homes we are equally as well intrenched.

Oriental Rugs

Never has a summer season dawned on the Oriental Rug show which presents perplexities to match the present situation. The weaving and importing of Oriental Rugs has practically ceased owing to the war—making the rugs more valuable than ever. We are much better supplied than anyone else in New England.

Small rugs suitable for summer houses are going to be a mighty scarce article this summer—but we are well supplied and our prices on such are the lowest in Boston.

Wall Paper

A good deal of the effort to produce a cool, summery look to your warm weather home lies in the selection of the wall paper. With our unexcelled facilities for displaying samples and wonderful stock from which to select, it is a comparatively easy matter.

Beautiful indeed are the new Spring designs in soft, light colored papers and restful fabric weaves; plain linens and cretonnes. Many novelties this Spring in new 36-inch papers.

Linoleums

Linoleum is a very strong factor in the successful furnishing of a home, whether for summer or all-the-year-round use. Its sanitary features are important, and if the linoleum is purchased here you may be sure it will wear well and the price will be right.

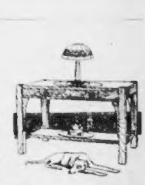
Among the many kinds of linoleum found in our wonderful assortment are battleship, plain, cork carpet, granite, moire, Jasper and parquetry linoleum—also Tile-Leum controlled exclusively by us.

Upholsteries

Our upholstery fabrics are much in demand for many kinds of artistic home decoration. Particularly the new fresh-colored summery fabrics are examples of beauty that will go a long way to make the home cheerful.

The new designs in hand blocked printed linen are particularly fascinating in period and conventional patterns. Cretonnes also come in for their share of deserved comment.

Lamps



The spring-like atmosphere is beginning to evidence itself in the lamp section also, where the new designs for summer are beginning to arrive and assume their place in this handsome setting—nothing like it in New England.

Worthy of particular mention in this enormous collection are mahogany and carved wood floor and table lamps, Japanese pottery and bronze lamps, silk, parchment and wicker lamp and candle shades.

Interior Decorations The problem of furnishing a new home or the refurnishing of the old one may be easily solved by leaving its solution to our Bureau of Interior Decoration. This service is entirely free of charge.

Jordan Marsh Company

Awnings The new awning materials for spring are now ready for inspection. In view of the fact always evident at the beginning of warm weather we advise ordering early, that plenty of time may be given the work.

LINCOLN, ME., WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Lincoln, Me., April 4—Mrs. Gordon Kelley killed herself here today by shooting. She was twenty-five years old and domestic troubles were said to have been the cause of her suicide.

Dr. Osler on Tuberculosis

Sir William Osler, Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, says in his "Practice of Medicine" (1912), on page 240: "The healing of pulmonary tuberculosis is shown clinically by the recovery of patients in whose sputa elastic tissue and bacilli have been found." In the granulation products and associated pneumonia a scar tissue is formed, while the smallpox caseous areas become impregnated with lime salts. In such conditions alone should the term healing be applied."

The success of Eckman's Alterative in tuberculosis may be due partly to its content of lime salts in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

It is worth a trial, unless other treatment already is successful. We make no promises—results will tell more than do reputable physicians with their prescriptions. Eckman's contains no opiates, narcotics, or habit-forming drugs; it is safe. Sold by all first-class druggists.

DON'T BE BILIOUS, HEADACHY, SICK OR CONSTIPATED

Enjoy life! Liven your liver and bowels tonight and feel great.

Wake up with head clear, stomach sweet, breath right, cold gone.

Take one or two Cascarets tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. Wake up feeling grand; your head will be clear, your tongue clean, breath sweet, stomach regulated and your liver and thirty feet of bowels active. Get a box at any drug store now and get straightened up by morning. Stop the headache, biliousness, bad cold and bad days. Feel fit and ready for work or play. Cascarets do not gripe, sicken or inconvenience you the next day like salts, pills or calomel. They're fine.

Mothers should give a whole Cascaret any time to cross, sick, bilious or feverish children. It will act thoroughly and cannot injure.—Advertisement.

SCALP TERRIBLE WITH DANDRUFF

Face Full of Pimples. Itched and Developed Into Sore Eruptions. Hair Came Out in Handfuls.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My scalp was terrible with dandruff and my face was full of pimples. The pimples were small and hard and they festered and came to a head. They itched and I would scratch myself in the night and then they would develop into sore eruptions. My scalp also itched very much and every night before I went to bed I would comb my hair and the dandruff and my hair came out in handfuls.

"I read of the wonderful results with Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a sample and then bought the Soap and Ointment, and after using three boxes of Ointment and two cakes of Soap I was healed." (Signed) Vincent Intermate, 224 Albany St., Cambridge, Mass., July 21, '15.

Why Suffer From Migraine or Sick Headache?

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be curable. Sufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacks are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two anti-kamnia tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one anti-kamnia tablet every two hours during the attack should it persist, once the pain and brings rest and quiet. Anti-kamnia tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all Pain.

END SUIT AGAINST CANFIELD DAUGHTER

Providence, April 4.—The suit against Mrs. Grace Canfield Hanno., daughter of the late Richard Canfield, for alleged alienation of affections of Benjamin Johnson, a local hotel orchestra leader, has been settled out of court.

The case attracted considerable attention, not only because of the prominence of the persons concerned, but because of a statement that the police, headed by Police Commissioner Moulton, visited the Hannon home about the time that the suit was brought.

Police officers obtained a key from the proprietor of the house on Benefit street, where the Hannon apartments are located, it was alleged, and Mrs. Hannon is said to have found two uniformed men listening at a door. The case was brought by Mrs. Ivy Johnson.

WOMEN FAINT IN CRASH OF TROLLEYS

Newburyport, April 4.— Several shoeworkers, including many women, narrowly escaped death early today when an electric car in which they were riding to work crashed into another electric, also filled, which had been derailed by spreading rails.

The women passengers became hysterical. Annie Brook of Seabrook, N. H., received serious injuries. Frank Dow of Salisbury was cut severely about the face and hands. Many of the women fainted. The cars were operating between Seabrook, N. H. and Newburyport. They bring hundreds of mill workers to this city each morning. An investigation has been started.

All Liars, Attention! Munchausen's Birthday Is Observed Thursday

Liars, attention!

The 150th anniversary of the birth of the late lamented Baron Jerome Charles Frederick Munchausen, the world's second greatest liar, will be duly celebrated at the B. Y. M. C. U. Hall, No. 48 Boylston street, Thursday night, by the Brown Mice.

The Brown Mice is the name of a literary organization connected with the union.

Are YOU going to be there?

Admission will be by ticket, the Brown Mice announce, and tickets are free to those who may be interested in the unique event.

Does this interest YOU? If you are a married man, ask Friend Wife. Doubtless she will say you should not miss it. Maybe you think she ought to be there.

It has been suggested that invitations should be sent to the following:

Colonel "Teddy" Roosevelt, founder of the Ananias Club and conferrer of the Ananias badge upon many distinguished persons.

The nut-eating Gnacharo, which the Colonel discovered (?), much to the surprise of the Harvard Museum, which already had a stuffed one.

Old "Doc" Cook, who says he is a liar if he didn't discover the North Pole.

And anybody else whom you might wish to suspect, like the grounding of the man who has a "sure thing" on the ponies.

Of course, if you never told a lie, don't go. You wouldn't get the fun, so early and avoid the rush.

The committee of arrangements including Alfred C. Dalmas, Donald B. Ross and Miss Addie E. Simmons of the Brown Mice.

A program has been arranged by James O. Pierce, Nathan Haskell Dole, the Boston author, editor and many fellow literary stories), will relate some original Munchausen tales.

Moving pictures will be shown of "Colonel Heeza Liar," a modern follower of Munchausen.

Members of the Elocution Class will read Munchausen tales. There will be music.

Tickets may be obtained at the B. Y. M. C. U. office.

'Secret Agent' Given Ten Days After Fort Trip

George E. Stewart, who claims to be a United States secret agent, received a ten day sentence for drunkenness in the East Boston Court today.

Stewart appeared at Fort Hanks at midnight last night, and demanded to see the commanding officer, Major Ashburn. Major Ashburn appeared and Stewart asked to see a man named Schmidt.

"No such man here," said the officer.

"Yes there is," Stewart insisted. "I'm a United States secret agent and I know he has the plans of Boston Harbor inside his hatband, and I want him."

Major Ashburn summoned the guard and Stewart was delivered to the police. In court today he was asked:

"What were you doing at the fort?"

"Official business," he replied. "I don't care to divulge it."

So he got ten days.

How Any Woman Can Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture)

It is not longer necessary for a woman to visit a beauty specialist to have superfluous hairs removed, for, with the aid of a plain delatone paste she can, in the privacy of her own home, remove even a stubborn growth in a very few minutes. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is applied to the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes removed and the skin washed, when it will be left clear and hairless. Be sure you buy real delatone.—Advertisement.

LEYDEN FLEES HAVERHILL IN TERROR

Lawrence and other nearby cities and towns. The police say these persons came to Haverhill intent on making trouble, and that they were in great measure responsible for the disturbances.

It was believed that Leyden went to his home in Somerville, and that he would not attempt to speak again, for some time at least.

Alderman Roswell L. Wood, one of the city fathers who gave Leyden a permit to speak against the objections of Mayor Bartlett, was afraid to go to his home last night, the night in a fire engine house near the police station.

Not satisfied with scaring Leyden almost to death, some of the citizens today were seriously discussing applying for a warrant for his arrest for inciting a riot.

Edward Kerrigan, who was arrested Sunday night following the disturbance created upon Leyden's first appearance, was in the local court today on a continued hearing, charged with disturbing a public meeting. Upon the request of Marshal Mack, his case was again continued until next Saturday.

PERSONAL EFFORTS.

Mayor Bartlett made the following statement to the AMERICAN today:

"The affair was the culmination of conditions and efforts stimulated quite largely by influences outside the city in an attempt to create hostility between the people of different creeds and parties. The same efforts have been periodically made in Massachusetts and have previously caused outbreaks in other places.

"Literature that was provocative and incendiary has been largely circulated and many reports have been industriously put in circulation.

"The large crowd that assembled was drawn partly by these reports and partly by the expectation of possible excitement, and contained but a small amount of the mob element. Like all such crowds, its anger and passions might easily have been aroused and that fact and wisdom of the police and militia prevented greater injury.

"Greatly as such an occurrence is to be regretted, it should not reflect upon the good name of Haverhill, one of the finest and most orderly cities in the Commonwealth, but should be considered as a result of inflammable efforts which unfortunately were effective."

Leyden is sixty-one years of age, and lives with his wife in Braslow avenue, somerville, of which city he has been a resident twenty years.

According to neighbors he was born into the Catholic faith, but never was ordained a priest.

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

SAYS BODY IS A POISON FACTORY

Urges everyone to drink glass of hot water before breakfast.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomaine-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember, inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.—Advertisement.

SIMPLE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get about two ounces of plain powdered nerosin from any druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores and do not get them out after they become hard. The powdered nerosin and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.—Advertisement.

DIGNOWITY, OLD HARVARD MAN, WED AGAIN

James V. Dignowity, Jr., known in his college days as "the richest man at Harvard," who was divorced in 1910 by his first wife, is on a second honeymoon. His new bride was formerly Miss Grace Newell Strong of New York city, daughter of the late Dr. George W. Strong, a Manhattan alienist. Her fortune is put at $250,000 by her friends. Dispatches today from New York said that Dignowity and Miss Strong were married on Saturday, April 1, by Justice Aaron J. Levy of the New York Second District Municipal Court.

Dignowity, who is the son of a Texas mining man, has been living at the Continental Hotel in New York. He and his bride are now at the Van Cortlandt, where the bride has been living.

Sell Emblems in Boston On May 6 for the Relief of Polish War Sufferers

Mrs. Josef Adamowski and her two babies. Mrs. Adamowski has been given permission to sell flowers and emblems on the Common for the Polish Relief Fund.

Polish Relief Day will be observed Saturday, May 6. Governor McCall will issue a statement and an appeal relative to the relief work for Poland. City officials have already granted Mrs. Josef Adamowski of No. 11 Channing street, Cambridge, and a corps of women interested in the work, permission to sell carnations and cockades on the Common during that day.

Hundreds of pretty Polish girls will appear in native costume. All collections will be turned over to the Polish Relief Fund. Mrs. Adamowski will have many assistants. She urges everyone to contribute.

She said: "This will be a day of giving. Poland is in great need. Her suffering is frightful. Thousands are dying for the want of nourishment and necessaries. I know Boston will respond generously."

REPUBLICANS WORRIED OVER BRANDEIS

By WILLIS J. ABBOT.

Washington, April 4.—Many Republicans are seriously distressed over the political aspect of the Brandeis case. The Senate will almost certainly split along party lines over the question of confirming the brilliant Bostonian as a member of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The sub-committee has already divided on that fashion, the two Republican members, Works and Cummins, explaining their action in long reports.

There is a marked divergence in the reasons for two distinct grounds for their course, a divergence that may be explained partly by the fact that the Iowa Senator is an active candidate for the presidency and represents a State which has been friendly to advanced liberalism in political thought and hostile to railroads.

But, however strong the arguments by which individual Republican Senators back up their opposition to Mr. Brandeis, politicians in the party apprehend that a strict alignment of all the Republicans in the Senate against his confirmation will be politically disastrous.

The ability and integrity of the appointee set aside, it was still looked upon as a striking political coup for President Wilson to appoint to the Supreme bench for the first time in the history of the United States a Jew.

If the Republicans joined heartily in his confirmation the political advantage of the appointment would not redound so wholly to Wilson's advantage. Had they even split according to their personal convictions as to the fitness of the nominee the charge of partisan opposition would not lie against the party.

But, if as now seems probable, all the Republicans vote against confirmation, it will be held that the party opposes him because he is a radical, or because he is a Jew, or both reasons.

PROF. GUILLOZ DEAD FROM WAR X-RAY

By International News Service.

Paris, April 4.—The first X-ray victim of the war is Professor Theodore Guilloz of the faculty of the University of Nancy, who was decorated by the Carnegie Foundation for humanitarian services. Professor Guilloz, established seven X-ray stations at Nancy for the treatment of wounded. While caring for prisoners he contracted radioemitis, which proved fatal.

POINTS TO GERMAN CO-OPERATIVE SPIRIT

Atlanta, Ga., April 4.—The co-operative spirit of commercial Germany was lauded today in an address by William J. Harris, federal trade commissioner at the Convention of the American Cotton Association.

"Germany's success as a commercial world power is due very largely to the policy of organizing and co-operating," said Harris. "Her business men, industrial and commercial achievements are gathered 83 per cent. of the manufacturers in the respective industries. This has proven to be the very backbone of Germany's interests and made associations in every important industry and into these are gathered 83 per cent. of the

SQUIRE TO TRAIN AIRMEN IN ARMY

By International News Service.

Washington, April 4.—Lieutenant-Colonel George A. Squire, recalled military attache of the American Embassy at London, will be sent to San Diego, Cal., as commandant of the San Diego Training School for army aviators, it was semi-officially announced at the War Department today.

ETON HEAD MASTER QUITS UNDER FIRE

London, April 4.—The Rev. Edward Lyttelton, head master of Eton College, has resigned. Dr. Lyttelton in speeches during the war has declared it was the duty of Great Britain to extend the principles of Christian charity to Germany and as a result he has been assailed by the newspapers as unpatriotic and a visionary.

HOLLAND FRIENDLY WITH ALL POWERS

The Hague, April 4.—Holland's diplomatic relations with all the belligerent countries are friendly, according to an official statement authorized here today. Recent military measures, it was stated, are not connected in any way with any diplomatic difficulties between the Netherlands and any of the belligerent powers.

"Hello, hello, is this you, Mrs. Henderson? I'm so glad you're home. I want to borrow some kerosene." . . .

"Yes, I know it sounds funny, but I can't help it. We're using oil heaters for the upstairs rooms — saves coal, you know—and we're all out of kerosene. I thought if you could spare me a gallon." . . .

"Oh, how nice of you. I'll send Willie right over. Just a moment —what kind of kerosene do you buy? I hate to look a gift kerosene can in the label as it were, but—"

"What? SOCONY Kerosene. I might have known. That's the kind we all use. We've had so much trouble with other kinds. . . Thanks. Oh, yes, I know if it's SOCONY it's sure to be all right. Thank you ever so much. Good bye."

Stallings Back on Job
Braves Squad Divided

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

RICHMOND, Va., April 4.—Unless old Colonel Boreas butts in again, the Braves will tackle "Billy" Smith's Richmond Internationals this afternoon. A year ago the former World's Champions visited this historic city and got away with an easy win from the team managed by Jack Dunn, now of Baltimore.

The weather here this morning was somewhat cooler than the Stallings hustlers have encountered thus far this Spring. At Rocky Mount, N. C., the town visited yesterday, the rain greeting the players, was the first amounting to anything the boys have encountered since the training season opened.

Manager Stallings rejoined the party this morning and expressed himself as gleeful over the wins scored over the Athletics in Jacksonville during his absence.

GEORGE WASN'T MISSED.

The big boss was pleased to see that the club had rounded into such shape as to be able to win without his being present, and his words today were similar to those contained in his message to Johnny Evers last week.

Stallings doesn't think that the cold spell of the last day or two has in any way affected the club. It would not be surprising if "Nifty" Neaf and George Tyler were to work through today, though there is a chance Tom Hughes or Jess Barnes will start the combat.

In Rocky Mount, Frank Allen and Pat Regan will probably do the hurling. They were left there along with Paul Strand and Bill James, and it seems highly probable that Pepper Fitzpatrick will decide to use them. Art Rico seems destined to catch, in Rocky Mount, though Tragressor, who complained yesterday of a sore arm, may be able to work.

BLACKBURN WITH FIRSTS.

Blackburn will probably catch all of this afternoon's game here, though, at that, "Hank" Gowdy may get busy. The teams will continue to live as heretofore, with "Dick" Kerr probably working at shortstop for the Seminoles.

Rocky Mount folks were considerably disappointed as a result of yesterday's queer weather as to how they had planned a holiday for the afternoon.

The holiday feature was postponed until today, but it is doubtful if the attendance will be as big as it would have been otherwise.

The professional hockey series between the Canadians, Wanderers and Quebec, the first named the world's championship, gets underway at the Arena tonight. The Wanderers and Quebec clash in the opening contest. They will play again Thursday night.

The professionals will play six men on a side, the position of rover being eliminated.

The games will be of three 20-minute periods.

ALEX'S ARM SORE; P. MORAN WORRIED

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 4.—Grover Alexander, the Phillies' famous right-hander, has a very sore right arm and may not be able to take part in the opening champion-ship games, it is feared by Manager Moran.

The club broke camp here last night and left for Richmond, Va. Catcher Killifer's bad arm refuses to show improvement.

However, Alexander is giving Moran his chief worry. Though Grover claims he will be ready when the ball rings, Pat fears that his best bet may be on the crippled list until the warm weather arrives.

ROXBURY GYMNASTS TO GIVE EXHIBITION

The Roxbury Neighborhood House will hold its annual gymnastic demonstration on April 7 in the House gymnasium. The proceeds of the collection will go into the treasury of the athletic association.

The entertainment will consist of wrestling, pyramiding, boxing, apparatus work and dumbbell drill. It will be under the direction of Dr. Martin, a former pitcher and graduate of Tufts.

E. H. REQUEST VETOED.

The School Committee has vetoed English High's request to send its relay team to the University of Pennsylvania meet late in April.

Miss Pearl White, Mentioned as Girl Moran Is to Wed

New York, April 4.—Freak Moran, the heavyweight battler, reputedly admitted today that he is contemplating matrimony.

"Who is the girl?" he was asked.

"Oh, that's a different story," answered Moran. "I'm not telling now. Later on I will. But just now it's a secret.

"It is a Pittsburgh girl?"

"Six or seven more questions," spoke up Moran.

Someone suggested if it would be Miss Pearl White, the "Movie" star, but Moran wouldn't tell.

B. A. A. TEAM LOSES TITLE FENCING GO

New York, April 4.—By defeating both the Boston A. A. and Fencers' Club at the Fencers' Club last night, the New York A. C. won the championship and the Saltus cup, emblematic of the title. They led the Boston teams six bouts to three and the Fencers' Club squad, four to three.

RING RESULTS

Providence, April 4.—Bill Brennan of Oakdale, formerly labeled Bill Shanks, knocked out Bob Williams of Philadelphia in the second of their bout at Thornton. Young Soldier of Woonsocket outpointed Jimmy Fox of Waterbury, Ct., in the semi-final, ten rounds.

New Bedford, April 4.—Jimmy Greenwood won his winning streak by defeating George Davis of New York in a six-sided 12-round bout. Young Demers and Young Dias drew.

Glenville, O., April 4.—Johnny Harvey of New York shaded Frankie Callahan of Brooklyn in their 12-round bout. Callahan showed speed in the early part, led from the seventh round to the twelfth but was weakened Callahan with a fusillade of body blows.

New York, April 4.—Pal Moore of Philadelphia shaded Willie Jones of Brooklyn at the A. A. last night.

New York, April 4.—Frankie Fleming, the Canadian featherweight champion, outpointed Young Rector of Jersey City at the Stadium A. A. last night.

New York, April 4.—Eddie Wallace easily defeated Kid Taylor in ten rounds at the Mohawk A. C.

New York, April 4.—Pater Cline outpointed Johnny Dundee at the Stadium A. A.

New York, April 4.—Willie Ames had the better of the milling in his ten-round bout with George Moir at the Olympic A. C.

Derry, N. H., April 4.—Battling Joe Carroll won the decision over Johnny Noonan of Dorchester in a 15-round bout here.

Sox Are En Route East
Baltimore Is Next Stop

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 4.—The World's Champions awoke a little earlier than usual this morning, being somewhat interested to get a glimpse of Bowling Green, which they passed through on their way to Baltimore.

This point on the map is chiefly famous as being the home of "Dick" Gilmore, who for several years was connected with the Boston Nationals and who met the boys during their stay in Memphis.

As the saying goes, "We are on our way to Baltimore" where, now that the Feds have disappeared, the city is celebrated as being the home of "Babe" Ruth.

IN RUTH'S HOME TOWN.

Ruth will pitch in the game to be played there tomorrow, so his many friends can see the big fellow in action.

We are due there about 8:30 o'clock in the morning, barring delays, and the team will live in their special cars, which will be sidetracked for them for the jump out of Baltimore for New York Wednesday night.

The Red Sox have had three days of idleness, owing to the rain Sunday and Monday and the long ride out of Memphis. They will take a stiff workout before they play the Orioles, as each and every man is anxious to get into the uniform.

LEWIS IN BROOKLYN GAMES.

Dutch Lewis' thumb is about right for work, and he is almost sure to play in the Brooklyn series, even if idle in Baltimore, which will give the champions their full strength in the field.

Speaker, Hooper, Gardner, Jaivin and Thomas are telling the boys about their wonderful golf stunts at the Country Club, Memphis, yesterday afternoon. It turned out bright and warm, but the old turtle-back ball park was a swamp.

"Cy" Barger, who was with the Red Sox under John I. Taylor's ownership, is a member of the "Chicks." He visited with the boys yesterday.

HOLY CROSS NINE OFF FOR PRINCETON

Worcester, April 4.—The Holy Cross baseball team leaves today for Princeton, where they will open up the season tomorrow with the Tigers. The men who will make the trip are Captain Murphy, Carroll and Sullane, catchers; McCarthy, Gill and Hadigan, pitchers; Cooley, Norton, Donahue and Fitzgibbons, infielders; Wiggins, Hogan and O'Neil, outfielders. McFarland and Fox will also accompany the team.

THREE N. Y. FIGHTS FOR FRED FULTON

New York, April 4.—The State Boxing Commission has received official notice that Fred Fulton, the Minnesota heavyweight, had been signed to meet three such foes. Fulton is to fight Al Reich April 28, Jim Coffey on or about June 1, and Frank Moran on or about July 1.

A syndicate headed by John J. Mack is promoting the series, with the expectation that it will result in a meeting between Fulton and Jess Willard next Fall.

FULL GAME AT HARVARD.

Coach Fred Mitchell gave the two varsity teams a full nine-inning practice battle on Soldiers' Field. Both teams batted hard, with team A winning, 13-8. Mitchell is rushing work with his squad, as the Red Sox are to be met at Fenway Park next Monday.

LYNN CREW GOING TO DULUTH RACES

LYNN, April 4.—Lynn will be represented by a crew at the national regatta, which is to be held in Duluth, Minn., August 11 and 12. Elimination races between the West Lynn and Farragut boat clubs will decide the winning crew, which will be financed by the people's regatta committee.

HOLY CROSS VS. TIGERS.

Worcester, April 4.—Holy Cross opens its baseball season tomorrow with Princeton. Coach Tommy McCarthy will take a squad of fourteen down to the Tigers' lair. Murphy and McCarthy are carded to be in the points.

BALL PLAYERS, ATTENTION!

The baseball season will open soon and, as in the past, the AMERICAN plans to devote considerable space to semi-pros and amateurs. Managers of teams are requested to send the list of their players, together with their addresses, to the Amateur Baseball Editor of the AMERICAN. Box score blanks and score cards will be sent to managers and captains who enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope with their request.

Brown vs. Brown in Feature Hip Bout

Frankie Brown of New York has been signed up to meet Mickey Brown of Malden in the feature bout at the Hippodrome tomorrow evening to take the place of Al Shubert, who, it is reported, was forced to cancel the bout, owing to a severe cut on the forehead.

Brown is one of the best bantams in the ring today, and while not as well known as some of the other performers to New England fans, is sure to put up a rattling bout.

Brown has two wins to his credit over Jabez White and has gone over the 15-round route with Pete Hartman, while plans are now on foot to match him with Kid Williams in New Orleans for a 20-round go.

Al Lippe, who is managing the New York Brown, declares the champions and near champions are dodging his team, and for that reason he has been forced to go idle or take on a bout for a very small percentage, but adds that he will come through tomorrow and force the issue with the men who are now claiming the title.

The quick shift on the part of the Armory Club directors is meeting with approval on all sides, especially among the Malden fans, who are going to turn out in big numbers to cheer their favorite on.

SWEENEY PUTS B. C. SQUAD OVER JUMPS

With over sixty candidates in the squad, Coach Bill Sweeney put the Boston College team through its first real outdoor work yesterday afternoon in preparation for its game with the Red Sox next Tuesday. The work was confined to infield and batting practice.

Pitchers Leo Halloran and Steve Fitzgerald are rapidly rounding into shape. Bob Gill is the most promising of the recruits, and, although playing college baseball for the first time, looms up as a sure comer.

BRITTON UNABLE TO KEEP LEWIS DATE

New York, April 4.—Young Brown has been substituted for Jack Britton to meet Ted (Kid) Lewis at Madison Square Garden Thursday night. Britton is ailing, and his doctor has forbidden him to fight for a few weeks.

SPORTING NEWS NOTES

Dartmouth may drop out of the Intercollegiate Basketball League, they have it in New York.

* * *

Coach Sanford starts Spring football work going at Rutgers next week. The New Brunswick eleven gets back on Princeton's '17 schedule, though passed up this year.

* * *

Coach McCarthy of Tufts will have a speedy bunch of men to select from in the dashes in Penalgian, McClellan, Sharpels, Bodden and Wiggin. Miller is practically Tufts' only distance man back for the field events. The former Dean Academy star seems set for a high-class season. Captain McGinnis and Bodden are jumpers of class and Voss is a live wire in the pole vault.

* * *

B. C. High's baseball nine opens its season Saturday with Natick. Coach McAtee is working out the squad on the old Walpole street baseground. He has a flock of seventy-five boilers and appears well stocked with promising talent. His hardest task will be to supplant the two drill boys, Bob and Eddie. They were the team's mainstays on the hill last Spring.

* * *

Brown & Nichols' crews have started active work on the Charles.

* * *

High School of Commerce's relay team, consisting of Anderson, Colvin, Pinkham, Haggerty, O'Brien and Duggan hit it up outdoors yesterday for the first time.

* * *

Noble & Greenough, Roxbury Latin and Stone, which comprise the Schoolboys' Rowing Association, had their initial spins yesterday. Coach James Smith and Marshall Williams of the N. & G. crew furnished the "fireworks" by taking an unexpected dip.

* * *

The Interscholastic Rowing Association meets at the B. A. A. at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Manager George V. Brown will preside.

* * *

Wellesley High's baseball candidates have got down to work in earnest. Veterans back are Captain Carey, McCabe, Hughes, Welch and Buell.

* * *

Coach John J. Sullivan has the Lexington High baseball squad at work. The 1915 stars back are Captain Wright, Cutter, Dodd, Lynch, Lassoff, Fitzgerald and Ready.

* * *

High School of Commerce's baseball squad, totaling over 100 candidates, had a rapid drill at the Reservoir grounds. It looks like a winning team, though Captain Dave Woods, Kilians and Mullin are the only veterans back.

* * *

Coach O'Flaherty put the English High teasers over the jumps at the Washington street baseground Friday and Monagle are the only members of last year's nine left. "Bull" O'Leary, who has starred on the gridiron, also on the ice, is after an infield berth.

* * *

Coach Orrell of Boston Latin worked out with a squad of forty-five at McNary Park. Murphy, Maguire, Connors and Stewart are the holdovers from last Spring.

* * *

Tufts regulars whipped the "Rookies," 4-1. Johnson pitched well for the veterans, while Johnny Saunders distinguished himself by robbing Swanson of an extra base drive by a brilliant running catch. All the regulars starred nicely, the earliness of the season considered. Saunders, Stafford, Armstrong and York did star work in the infield, working together in fine fashion. Kreppa and Paxley divided the hurling, with Carroll doing all the catching.

* * *

Tufts track men did a little work, though the squad will not be called out until tomorrow. Tyler, Merritt and Penalgan are among the veterans ready for the early practice.

PERRY IS RIOT AT TRIALS

Boston Boxer Defeats Joe Chevalier in Lively Bout—"Bill" Corbett a Loser.

BOSTON boxers covered themselves with glory in the opening trials of the National A. A. U. boxing championships, put on under the auspices of the B. A. A., before a packed house in Mechanics Building last night.

Thomas Darcy, B. Y. M. C. U., won from Ed Williams of Toronto, and John Terry was the victor over Joe Chevalier of Montreal. Williams and Chevalier are two of Canada's leading amateur glovemen. They have been picked to win, but were put out of the running early by the two Boston starters.

Despite the defeats of Williams and Chevalier, the bulky Canadian team acquitted itself in brilliant fashion. Dave Brown of Toronto scored over Fred Hamilton of New York in the 125-pound class. It was a fast and close setto, with Brown barely inches in front of Hamilton at the final bell.

TERRY'S GAME FINISH.

The Terry-Chevalier bout was a corker; in fact, just about the banner event of the night. The 115-pound Canadian dropped Terry in the first round. There was something doing every second of the route, with Terry rallying finely from his bad start and winning the judges' award.

Johnny Marlo of East Boston emerged his way to a victory over Fred Huyler of Roxbury in the 135-pound class. Martin Burke, one of the New Orleans entrants, shaded Mark Cortez of Roxbury and was named the winner.

VOLGER BEATS CORBETT.

"Bill" Corbett, New England 115-pound champion, went against Ben Volger of New York, Metropolitan champion. Volger did the superior milling and won.

Tony Vatlan of Brighton, the national champion, used his celebrated left-so hard and often on Willie Jones' body and jaw that he landed in front with ease.

The dusky Joe Gans of Lynn disposed of Dan Donovan of Cambridge in their set-to.

There were two knockouts in quick succession in the 145-pound class. Eugene Brosseau of the Canadian team dropped A. Cotalandi, Pittsburgh A. A., in the second period, and Roy Holton, Kansas City A. C., stopped F. Myers, New York, in a punch.

The judges disagreed in the Boutellier-Miller bout in the 125-pound class, with the referee giving the latter the decision. The finals in all classes will be staged tonight. With the "hooks" practically shut out, it's a sure thing the S. R. O. sign will be on display early. The summary:

105-POUND CLASS.

Thomas Darcy, Boston Y. M. C. U. (108), beat Ed Williams, Riverside Club, Toronto (104), three rounds; referee's decision.

George Ettel, Union Settlement A. C., New York (108), beat Mike Snyder, Boston (109), three rounds.

Freddy Mulder, East Boston, drew bye.

Issy Wiesel, Providence, drew bye.

115-POUND CLASS.

Willard-Wills Go Wanted Here by Manager of Negro

NEW YORK, April 4.—If Harry Wills, the New Orleans colored heavyweight, defeats John Lester Johnson at the Harlem Sporting Club Friday night, he will start a national publicity campaign to try to force Jess Willard to meet him for the title.

Jim Buckley, his manager, claims he will post $25,000 for a twelve-round bout between Willard and Wills in Boston. Buckley will allow Willard to select the referee.

B. C. Is Well Off for Pitching Material

With over sixty men comprising the Boston College baseball squad, and the Southern trip but two weeks away, Coach Bill Sweeney has a big job facing him this week in shaping up all matters.

Over half the men have shown varsity class in the last three weeks of indoor practice and this, together with the fact that all but two members of last year's crack team are back, makes the job doubly difficult for Sweeney.

Sweeney has the best material the Maroon and Gold has produced in several years and Boston College men are becoming enthusiastic over the prospects of a record-breaking nine.

Halloran, Fitzgerald, Gill and Curry are all good hurlers. Halloran has been the mainstay in the box for B. C. the past three years and is regarded as one of the most promising young college pitchers in the country.

FITZGERALD IS BACK.

Fitzgerald, who pitched for B. C. last year, is the only other first string veteran and is a close runner-up to Halloran. Fitzgerald is a southpaw, has good speed and fine control. Among the new men "Bob" Gill stands out most prominently.

Gill, too, is a southpaw and has a very keen understanding of the real art of pitching. Although he has had no college experience as yet, he is almost bound to prove a valuable asset to the University Heights team.

McCorry of Cambridge Latin, Curry of Wellesley High, Dennis, Vaughn, Jim Duffy and McCarthy are among the battery candidates who have survived the first cut by Sweeney and all are fighting hard for retention.

OLD OUTFIELD INTACT.

In the matter of catchers Sweeney is as fortunate as with his boxmen. Captain Joe Dee, who proved a star behind the bat the past two years, is back in his old form and can be depended upon for a brilliant season. "Buck" Donnelley is Dee's only formidable associate.

Flynn, Gilbert and Wholly of last year's outfield are back and working hard to hold down their old berths against the large number of men out against them. In the infield the veterans will have to show much "class" to retain their places.

RING REMARKS.

"TWIN JACK" SULLIVAN, one of Boston's famed ringsters, is back in the game and off to a successful start in his comeback campaign.

SULLIVAN worked out faithfully at Nantasket, putting himself into trim. When satisfied he was right, he went after some minor bookings, so as to learn just what his form amounted to.

AT Meadville, Pa., last Friday night, "Twin Jack" Sullivan, a boy of Sam Nolan, a Rochester, N. Y., pug of fair renown. Sullivan came in at 146 pounds, he writes local friends, and gave away fully thirty pounds to Nolan.

SULLIVAN'S next date is with Sherman McMahon at Newcastle, Pa. The ten-round set-to is programmed for next Tuesday night.

TERRY BROOKS of Eddie Mack's stable, who hasn't been very active of late, meets Andy Cortez at Greenfield tonight.

"MICKEY" Devine, the Rhode Island biffist, winner on a foul over Frankie Burns at Thornton, R. I., in his last start, seeks scraps with all N. E. 135-pounders.

RAY DOBSON has Devine in tow. He is also piloting "Battling" McFarland. The Devine-Madden battle was a very rough one, with Referee Finnell disqualifying the latter in the ninth round for his flat refusal to box along proper lines.

Soccer Shots.

BETHLEHEM, the national cup champion, by defeating the New Hudsons, qualified for the semi-final round. The losers played a strong game, but were unfortunate in having a penalty kick awarded their opponents that Fleming handled in great style, this being the only goal of the game.

* * *

THE Pullmans of Chicago and the Continentals of New York are the other two teams already qualified for the semi-final, with the New Bedford T. C. and Fall River Rovers replay yet to be decided. The winner of this replay will very likely be drawn against the first-named club.

* * *

SEVERAL prominent Lynn merchants are subscribing generously to the Lynn merchants' cup, soon to be contested for. "Sandy" Williams of the General Electrics, secretary of the competition, feels sanguine of putting up a trophy costing over $200.

* * *

THE school authorities in Lynn are considering seriously the advisability of putting soccer on their athletic schedule among student and classical schools. It looks like another boost for the game and the good of the youngsters.

* * *

GENERAL Electrics will tackle the Lynn Fosbe on Saturday in the third round of the State cup series. Captain Herbert, having completely recovered from his recent injuries, will be seen in the line-up, along with his star partner, Billy Gillespie.

* * *

THE Boston and District League games will be resumed on Saturday. Trimo opposes St. Georges and Clan Sutherland goes against Lynn Thistles. Games are to be played on the grounds of last-named clubs.

* * *

THE last soccer game for Athletic Field, New Bedford, was staged on Saturday. After serving as a site for athletic events for a good many years, it will be cut up into building lots. The game in itself was a fitting climax to the several many "fans" were on hand to celebrate.

* * *

MACKMAN, Sprowson and Williams of the St. George's were easily the stars of the game and with any two men to make up the eleven little trouble would have been encountered to defeat the Pullmans. This outfit next is in a class by himself. This modest fellow deserves no distinction for the position and would rather be the L. F. B. notwithstanding.

Harvard Eleven Will Get Busy on April 22

Harvard's football contingent held a talkfest at the Union last night. Coach Leo Leary told the squad of fifty what would be expected of them when Spring practice starts, April 22. Captain Dadmun will be in charge of the early work, with Leary on hand to give the new pilot pointers.

Dolben will be unable to have his full strength out, as a lot of the gridiron stars are taking part in crew, baseball and track work. Moseley, Taylor and Wiggin, linemen of renown are working with the crews. "Duck" Harris and Billy Robinson are members of Fred Mitchell's baseball class while Minot, Wilkes and several other members of the track squad are allied with the track squad.

Derrick Parmenter, Stanley Pennock and Mal Logan are slated to be on hand when the Spring football work starts and aid Dadmun and Leary in their labors.

HARRIMAN BACK IN YALE VARSITY BOAT

New Haven, Ct., April 4.—Roland Harriman, son of the late E. H. Harriman, is back at his place at stroke in the Yale varsity eight after a week's absence owing to illness, it developed, last year's captain, but also resumed his seat at No 5. He has been out with a sore back.

M'GRATH LOST TO YALE.

New Haven, Ct., April 4.—It is officially stated that Walter McGrath who was being counted upon as one of Yale's best linemen next Fall, has been dropped from the Sheffield Scientific School on account of deficiency in his studies. McGrath came to Yale from Exeter, where he played two years.

UNLOCKS DOOR TO PERFECT HEALTH

Popular South Boston Man Relates How Plant Juice Has Restored His Health.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Actual statements from people who have used some remedy are more convincive than all the scientific data in the world. That is why I am asking anxious to make public voluntary statements from users of Plant Juice, because it is the quickest way to convince the American public of the wonderful properties of this truly remarkable preparation. I always insist on only using those from the same city in which they are published, so that readers may have no difficulty in investigating and verifying them," said Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Co., Boston, where he is introducing the new herbal health remedy, Plant Juice.

"Every day testimonials are pouring in from well-known local people, telling the benefit they have derived from the use of Plant Juice.

"One of the latest is that of Mr. Edward Callow, who lives at No. 2 Hesford Avenue, South Boston, and is a trusted employe of one of the largest firms in this city. He stated:

"For four years I have suffered from indigestion and dyspepsia. I could not digest my food and it would ferment in my stomach and cause gas. I suffered agony after eating and had headaches, was constipated, my liver was sluggish and torpid, which caused me to be very dizzy at times and my complexion was very sallow. I could not sleep at night. I was so nervous and became very weak and all run down. I took to live on milk and toast as I could not eat any solid food. I heard of Plant Juice and got a bottle of it, which has certainly been fine in my case, as it has cured my stomach and tuned my entire system up. I sleep well and my complexion has cleared up nicely. I cannot say enough in favor of Plant Juice.

"The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Co.'s store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy."—Advertisement.

NEW YORK RING TALK

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Joe Cox, who claims to have stopped champion Jess Willard, will be an interested spectator at the Broadway Sporting Club tonight. The scrappy Akron Westerner will be there to watch Dan (Porky) Flynn and Charley Weinert go 12-round bouts. Both boys will be trying their ten-round mettle for the first time, and if they do as well as they have in the rehearsals the ringside bouts at Long Acre hall next week will be welcomed until after the registration week of Labor Carnegie Harvard's crack crews are to get into action late in the week.

THE Broadway S. C. has also completed cards for Saturday night and next Tuesday night. Benny Brandt and the Young Zulu Kid will feature the card Saturday evening, while Phil Bloom and Johnny Harder, of whom are better men and will play each next Tuesday.

THURSDAY night Mike O'Dowd, the boy who and Terry Mitchell to dreamland, in seven rounds, will box Wm. Jack Toland at Philadelphia, at the Clermont avenue rink.

Harvard Crews Start Work on Charles

Harvard's two 'varsity crews are back from Lynn and busily at work on the Charles. The water in the boats was far too rough for the shells and for the most part their paddled strokes on the mirror-like surface of Brighton bridge. Those boys and coaches in charge of the first two crews, and it now looks as if the changes in coaching heads at Lynn late last week will be announced until after the registration week of Lake Carnegie. Harvard's main crews are to get into action late in the week.

Why I Never Married

No. 2—The Second Old Maid Tells How Her Family Spoiled Her Dreams

By DOROTHY DIX.

"THE reason I am an old maid," said the second woman, "is because I had too much family.

"I was the only girl in a large family connection. I had parents and grandparents, and innumerable elderly married uncles, and aunts, and cousins, all of whom were devoted to me, and felt that they had a perfect right to meddle in all my affairs and help me select a husband.

"They considered it even their duty to present to me gratuitous criticisms of every young man who came to the house, and it never occurred to the poor dears that my tastes and ideals in husbands might be different from theirs, and that, anyway, I was the one who was going to have to live with the man I married, and not they.

"Their intentions were benevolent, but the results were just as disastrous as if they deliberately set out to cheat me out of husband, and home, and children, and the normal joys of woman.

"Grandmother was determined that I shouldn't marry into any family that wasn't as blue blooded and didn't have as aristocratic traditions as her own. Grandfather was on the lookout for fortune hunters, and filled with suspicions of every poor man who came about me.

"Aunt Jane wept at the thought of my marrying a man who didn't believe in her particular brand of theology and wasn't interested in the salvation of the heathen.

AN IMPOSSIBLE BARRIER

"Uncle John looked gloomily upon young men who kept automobiles and played golf, and prophesied they'd end up in the poorhouse.

"Aunt Maud called every man who couldn't dance and didn't have the very latest thing in ties and socks, 'boors,' and Uncle Thomas contemptuously designated the foxtrotters and swell dressers as 'jumping jacks' and 'tailors' dummies,' while as for my parents, they would have found nothing but faults in him had Admirable Crichton begun paying regular calls on me.

"As soon as a young man began manifesting any special interest in me, my family strapped him down to the vivisection table, and with cheerios of glee fell upon him with their little scalpels.

"They tore him limb from limb and fibre from fibre until he didn't have a thread of character left. They assailed his opinions, they cast doubt upon his morals, they made fun of the way he walked and talked, they mimicked his laugh and his gestures. They turned him into a figure of fun instead of a hero of romance.

"Now, a young girl's fancy is the most sensitive and delicate thing on earth. It is like the mimosa tree, whose leaves shut up upon themselves at the slightest touch. Make a man ridiculous in a girl's eyes, show up all of his little peculiarities and eccentricities, turn the spotlight on his little weaknesses, and you blast even the possibility of love's young dream for her.

"That was my unhappy fate. As I look back now upon my girlhood I see three different men to whom I was strongly attracted, men with whom I could have fallen in love if I had been let alone, and either one of them would have made me a good husband with whom I should have lived a full and happy life.

"Each of these men asked me to marry him, and to each I said 'no' because my family had blighted my romance in its bud.

"There was Jack. I met him at a Summer resort whither I had gone with a friend. He was all that was charming, and light-hearted, and gay, but with real manhood and strength underneath his happy-go-lucky way, as there may be the granite rock under the ever-decked hill.

"I was more than half in love with him until I came home and my family fell upon him. Because of his ready smile they called him Sunny Jim. They declared his amusing slang to be vulgar. They ridiculed him until they made me see in him only a moundunk, and then, of course, ended that little romance.

THE LAST STRAW

"And there was Arthur with his dreams, his exquisite sensibilities, his subtle perception—my real soul mate I still believe—but from about him my family stripped every illusion by calling him 'owl eyes,' and impracticable, and darkly prophesying that I would have to take in boarders to support him if I ever married him.

"And lastly there was Ben. Ben, who even then, had the mark of success on his brow that I recognized, though my stupid family didn't. Ben was one of those men born to achieve. He was like a call to battle, and I would gladly have enlisted at his side.

"But Ben fell over his feet in those days when he entered a room, and didn't know which fork to use at dinner, and my family plowed him up to me as such a clodhopper that they blew out with their laughter the little flame of love that had kindled in my heart.

"And Ben is now a multi-millionaire and I'm a stenographer.

"That's the reason I'm an old maid. Because I'm my family. They kept me from falling in love, because with their profane hand they watered me from all my dreams of love and stripped away all the illusions and romance from about the men I met."

The Modern Way to Wash Blankets

A great improvement over the old-fashioned ways.

Don't put off washing blankets! If you enjoy soft results as are remarkable with Lux — a wonderful, pure essence of soap in flakes!

Directions: For a pair of double blankets, dissolve half a package of Lux in boiling or very hot water. Whisk into a lather. Let your blankets soak for a few minutes in these soapsuds until the water has cooled enough for the hands to bear with comfort. Then dip them up and down.

Lux lather quickly dissolves dirt—without rubbing. Rinse the blankets in three relays of clear hot water, the same temperature as that of the water you washed them in. Dry them on a bright, sunny day and your blankets will look like new. They will be soft and fleecy—not harsh as they would be when washed with ordinary soap—and white as a snowdrift. They are best unbleached. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Our Wonderful World

The uninitiated would be inclined to say "Diddlestitcher," if they were told that a violin could be worth $12,500. Yet the one which the wonderful Russian violinist, Count Ignace Glator, plays upon so divinely, cost six American lady admirers that sum before they could secure it for presentation to the noble Russian. It is a Strad, of course, and therefore easily worth ten times its weight in gold.

There is a Strad at Madrid which no money could buy. It was presented by Queen Isabella of Spain to the prince of violinists, Sarasate, when he played before her as a little chap of ten. She was so overwhelmed with admiration of the little fellow's amazing genius that she gave him this priceless instrument, but it was privately arranged that it should revert to the state on the master's death.

A short time ago a workman out of employment carried an old violin to a shop at Nyon, near Lausanne, and offered it for sale, saying that his family was badly in need of the money. Out of pity a young clerk in the shop gave him fifteen francs for it, and after trying it repaired played on it. He was amazed at its melody, and when a neighboring musician offered him four pounds for it he took it to an expert, who declared it an Amati.

A very well-known American amateur was then living near Paderewski, at Morges, not far from Lausanne. He heard a rumor of this discovery, sought out the young clerk, and eventually gave him $4,000 for the instrument. The clerk, on his part, sought out the poor workman and gave him much more than fifteen francs.

It is announced that an English steel firm has evolved a new product called stainless steel, which when brought to a bright polished finish is proof against rust, stain or tarnish. The first articles which have been made from this steel are cutlery, and after prolonged use this has retained its original finish. Although specimens were subjected to a most glaring severe test in fluids of various kinds known to be most destructive to steel, there were no marks of any kind on the surface.

Stop, Look, Listen!

With Gaby Deslys and Harry Fox

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1916, by International News Service.

STOP—A gorgeous musical affair, with no story at all, at all—but sending you away with a foursome or so of insistent melodies rolling about in little round silver notes in your head. The dialogue is keen and quick, and the whole thing moves with a gayety and a gusto that will please you entirely that day you are out for something comical and colorful. Wait a bit—it's called "Stop! Look! Listen!"

LOOK—There's Gaby Deslys in it, preening her little self in her usual glory of costumes—and HARRY FOX, ladies first, of course, or Gaby and he would have come changed about. Gaby all gold of hair and a surprisingly sturdy and childish little person prancing through every scene from here to Honolulu with a pair of feet that are a delight—so small and so beautifully shod and restless are they.

If Harry Fox but walked and SMILED, and said never a word, every one would be satisfied with that dish of broth—but with the added flavor of his voice that reaches right out to you and touches the spot of tears and laughter, you leave the feast at the Colonial Theatre with a warmed heart and your connoisseur's soul content! Here is the magnetic personality—and here's ness of voice, and a smile that seems delighted with every little thing that lies around him.

I tried to make a sketch of him without the smile, but since I had never seen him without one, the finished picture wasn't Harry Fox. He would smile his way into a heart that had been frozen fast and tight for seventy years. I saw him do it, and the heart of the ancient, white, dried-apricot-faced old gentleman creaked and snapped in the process! A prim peaches-and-cream-faced Englishwoman whom you would reckon would shut her eyes tight and put her hand over her lips at the word LOVE said in her measured diction, but with an American enthusiasm in her voice, "I LOVE him!"

Look—at the color that ebbs and flows and flames in the shape of originally frocked girls. There are hoops, and yards of illusive tulle; there is fur, there are Summer things for Honolulu, and settings that seem to me rather new and good in idea. Flat in color—the ocean ultramarine—the beaches and the coral islands one-toned sand-color—the palms of gray-green, delicately filigreed as though their fronds were cut from plain paper—they are pleasant and restful to the eye.

LISTEN—the music is full of gay, clinging little melodies that catch in the mind and leave the house with you; Gaby's voice is a little French affair that we like very much—because it is a bit like our own.

Listening to Gaby's voice—and Harry Fox's American songs—you find America and France—and like the show. There is also the tap-tap of Joseph Santley's clever feet that seem to strike only the top of thistle-down. He is a dancer who keeps Gaby Deslys thinking hard and skipping fast on her flashing soles to keep apace with him. Surely he doesn't know that another half of his fortune is his smile—for we see it but twice perhaps.

Great War in Europe Foretold Twenty-six Years Ago

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, Star Co.

IN 1887 there came into my possession an eight-leaf pamphlet, entitled "A Vision of the Future." It was headed by the following notice:

"The manuscript of the following prophecy was written on August 27, 1890, and received by me September 3, 1890, from ——, who desires to remain unknown as to author for the present, but who also requests me to print the date and to provide a few printed copies for private distribution. This I hereby do, in compliance with the wish of a friend, without any responsibility for the statements hereinafter made. Elliott Coues, No. 1726 N street, Washington, D. C. September 3, 1890."

It is interesting to read the prophecies which this little pamphlet contains. The writer says:

"The seers and prophets of every school of thought have foretold extraordinary changes to be brought in church and State between 1850 and 1925. However they have differed in their creeds to come, all the prophetic dates fall within this period of time, the last half of the present century, and the first quarter of the next." (Mr. Hibbard, it will be remembered, was writing in 1890.)

We are now sixteen years advanced in the twentieth century and it is interesting reading to see what Mr. Hibbard predicted would occur before 1925.

"Individuals and nations will mingle in bloody wars, in the final frightful scenes of imperial and royal revolutions, of famine and pestilence, of flood and fire, of quaking earth and lowering sky—all of which, like the night, the day, shall usher in the dawn of a new civilization and crown the era of universal happiness and good will.

"There will be war in Europe—the greatest and, in its consequences, the most terrible the world has ever seen. The whole map of that continent will be dissolved and rearranged. Its every government now existing will be overthrown, and in the impending political intrigues will occur the dissolution of the Turkish Empire. France will conquer Germany, regain her lost provinces, extend her boundaries, and become again the foremost power in Europe.

"Germany will lose her present military prestige and be torn with internal dissensions. Power will be vested in the feet of Schonhaldenmar a motley image, until all royalty and aristocracy be swept away in the fall of all the houses that hold hereditary rights and privileges. Russia, in her convulsions, will greatly extend her dominions in Asia.

"The most pronounced and amazing feature of this age will be the increasing activity and influence of women in every walk of life and in all countries. Three of the most despised and apparently insignificant members of the body politic will rise to heights of power and display the most vehement and exhibit the most noble heroism. These are the women, the workman and the Jew. To those who remain in Palestine after the terrible wars, I foresee will be entrusted the leadership of noble and honorable offices."

This covers a large portion of the contents of this little booklet, written twenty-six years ago, it will be remembered. It was printed in Washington by Gibson Bros. Whether the firm is now in existence and whether copies of the booklet can be obtained I do not know.

Mr. Hibbard proceeds to say: "Once more are the destinies of the world to be guided, whether manifestly or invisibly, by the spiritual powers that uphold the hands of the Lord, kings and priests of a golden age, and mankind is to acknowledge one God, confess one religion and submit with a wise joy to one just and all-comprehending government." Let us hope this last prediction of Mr. Hibbard, at least, will be as fully realized as many of the others have already been.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

CONSIDER HIM ONLY A FRIEND

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

I am sixteen and receiving attentions from a young man of the same age. He is ambitious about his work and has a fine future. But my father seems to have forgotten that I have grown nearly into womanhood. He heartily disapproves of places of amusement, or any entertaining, in which I frequently indulge unknown to him, as he is seldom home, but always with my mother's consent. My father has spent money on me for music and vocal lessons since I was five years old, therefore he expects me to return this small fortune in due time.

A BOY of nineteen is much too young to be regarded as a serious suitor. I think you would be wise to devote yourself more earnestly to your work and to take toward this boy merely an attitude of friendship. Why not be honest with your father and by deserving his confidence win it?

BE GLAD IT IS OVER

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

I have for some time been deeply infatuated with a young married woman. Now, this friendship has been ruptured owing to my friends. FLOYD S.

IF is very fortunate for you that your friends have broken off this affair with a married woman. You really ought to be ashamed to confess your infatuation for another man's wife, and you ought to thank the kind Fates that have terminated your acquaintance before it developed into something that would bring shame and unhappiness to her.

Gray Hair!

If you use anything to avoid Gray Hairs you should ask yourself this question, "Will my hair be as good 5 years from now as it is today?" The answer depends upon whether you use the mild and simple Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer, tried and, proven for many years. You are taking a risk if you let anyone talk you into buying an imitation.

Because this wonderful restorer has been so marvelously successful, there are a host of imitators, so to be "safe and sure" see that the bottle you buy shows the name plainly on the label. There is only one Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer.

FREE TRIAL. Let me send you a trial bottle absolutely free so you can test it easily on one lock of hair. Say if your hair was black, dark brown, medium brown, or light brown.

Pitfalls of Hero Worship

Most Trying Phase of Success Is Favors That Are Asked

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HAVE you the habit of sending letters to your favorite motion picture actor? Do you write and ask favors of the last successful playwright? When you read an interesting story do you immediately sit down and send a request to the author to read "a few little things of yours?"

There is no more trying phase of success than the fact that it brings with it all sorts of claims for assistance. Every successful man or woman has friends and relatives to whom he would undoubtedly like to give help and to help whom he is probably unable.

Surely any one who offers the public entertainment or food for thought is doing a service then and there; and that service ought not put him in the position of being subjected to all sorts of demands from enthusiastic strangers.

If you are a hero worshipper and must pledge your favorite star or author with letters, limit yourself to an expression of appreciation and don't demand advice, assistance, interviews, or any form of personal attention.

The work the average successful playwright, actor or author does is exacting and laborious and demands all the nervous energy and attention to routine of which that individual is capable.

Why should he be asked to pay a secretary to wade through all sorts of letters from all sorts of people, or be himself compelled to read literary effusions or plead for charity from people whose pride and common sense are totally lacking in that they do not keep the individuals from imposing on the time and thought of a stranger?

To write to some one whose business it is to deal with the problems of others—a social worker or the head of an institution—is a perfectly logical thing to do. But why abuse any one's purpose that a young woman who has attained success on the stage has either the time or the inducee to exploit strangers of whose talent and ability she knows nothing?

If you are a hero worshipper, be an unselfish one; don't ask favors of your divinity and then complain her because your letters go unanswered. One of my young friend of mine, whose first play was a Broadway success, sometimes got a hundred letters a day from people who wanted their manuscripts read. Had they gotten what they wish they would never have been a second play written.

Don't make demands of strangers who happen to be in the public eye. You have no claim on them—but they have a claim on you, to be allowed to work in peace.

Disappointed

The mails from home had just been received by a certain English regiment, "somewhere in France." Not only were there letters, but many parcels from relatives and friends at home for lucky soldiers.

One of the Tommies received a large box addressed to himself, and with a triumphant yell he rushed off to his company's lines and gathered them round him to share in the eagerly-anticipated contents of his box.

"Smokes, lads!" he cried as he undid the wrapping. "I'm the only dad man, I know it, and there's sure to be a bottle or two of Scotch."

He opened the box, gave one look at the contents, and exclaimed in a heap.

"It's from old Aunt Mary," groaned the disappointed warrior. "Bandages an' ointment an' embrocation an' splints, an' a book on 'Ow to be Your Own Surgin'!"

Ladies and Gentlemen, come right up. The Great AMERICAN Better Babies Contest is now on. You can't miss it.

The best baby to be found in Greater Boston will win a splendid prize, a silver cup that should make a treasured heirloom when the baby has grown up and has children of his or her own.

Although hundred of babies are already on the list, there is plenty of room for all the rest. Every baby will be given a fair chance of winning one of the fifty medals, should he lose the cup. He will be judged by physicians who are authorities and who know what perfect babies are.

They will look the babies over from top to toes, and will ask all manner of questions about them. When they finally pick fifty-one as Gerber's it will be only after thorough examination.

Send in the names of your babies with the registration blank filled out as required. Write a letter with the blank, and, if possible, send a photograph of the baby. The picture is not absolutely essential, but may help the judges.

From forty towns surrounding the State House and within a radius of thirteen miles are coming all kinds of entrants, and a fine looking gallery of babies they are. Nothing could be more splendid. Some of the babies have taken prizes in local baby shows, others, born puny and sickly, have improved so much with careful rearing, fresh air and regulated food that they are now real contenders for a medal.

A large proportion of the best appearing babies have been given a plentiful supply of fresh air. Dozens have slept out of doors, according to their mothers. Not all have been breast-fed; some were bottle babies, but carefully supervised.

Will the Far West, the Middle West, the South, or New England bring forth the finest baby specimen? That is a question we are interested to have answered. But we must first be sure to have every perfect baby here in Greater Boston before we can have half a chance of bringing to New England the Grand Prix.

Among the many entrants to join the ranks for medals today is a baby whose father is fighting at the front in Europe. This baby plans, if he wins one of these gold medals, or even a silver or bronze medal, to send it to his father in the trenches.

"Paps," he declares, "would like to know that I have been able to win a prize at home while he gets a cross or medal for bravery."

Quite a speech for a one-year-old, but, at any rate, that is what he tried to say to the Better Babies Editor.

Among other entrants that have come in is a baby from Dorchester—a nineteen-months-old youngster, who looks like a future ring champion.

"He has lots of toys," writes the mother, "but all he wants is to punch the bag. This youngster was a sick baby at first, but now represents thirty-two pounds of solid, animated flesh."

Already a half-dozen twilight-sleep babies have entered the contest. Will a twilight-sleep baby win a first prize? Advocates of that method of bringing babies into the world are hoping so.

Another is a Caesarian baby, who has a tragic history. Physicians declared he could not live, but the triumphant mother asserts that it not only lived, but has grown so large and strong that she thinks it is in line for a medal.

She says she never would give it up, and finally fed it strained oatmeal, which agreed with it.

Stocks Irregular at Noon, After Opening on Higher Level—Oils Rallied and Motor Issues Advanced—Coppers Quiet—Zincs Recede from Highest

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were irregular at noon, a recessional tendency developing towards the end of the second hour. There was realising on a considerable scale in some issues during the morning. War industrials were irregular, while rails lost a part of gains. Oils advanced and there was an upward movement for motors. Coppers were quiet and indefinite in price trend. Railroads were firm but inactive.

Gains at 12 o'clock included American Can 3/4, American Smelting & Refining 3/4, American Zinc 1/8, Butte & Superior 1/4, Chandler Motor 2 3/4, Studebaker 3 1/4, Maxwell 1/4, Willys-Overland 1/8, at 23 3/4, offer for selling 24 3/4; Mexican Petroleum 1/4, Texas Company 2 1/4, Baldwin 3/4, Distillers 3/4, Marine preferred 1/4, Steels 1/4, Atchison 1/2, New York Central 1/4, New Haven 1/2, Northern Pacific 1/2, Reading 1/4, Southern Pacific 1/4, and Union Pacific 1/2.

Among declines were U. S. Steel 1/4, Utah Copper 1/4, Chino 1/4, Anaconda 3/4, Kennecott 1/4, Car and Foundry 1/4, American Locomotive 1/4, Crucible Steel 1/4, Crucible 1/4, Westinghouse 1/2, Industrial Alcohol 1/4, Baldwin & Ohio 1/4, and Southern Pacific 1/4.

Gains in Boston included American Zinc 1/8, Alaska Gold 1/4, Calumet & Arizona 1/4, Old Dominion 1/4, Mohawk 1/4, Isle Royale 1/4, Wolverine 1, Utah Apex 1/4, and United Fruit 1/4.

Among declines were Alloues 1/4, Copper Range 1/4, Hancock 1/4, U. S. Smelting 1/4, and New Haven 1/4.

PRICES UP AT START.

Prices rulled a shade higher at the opening in New York, and although a number just part of a dollar, or a fraction of consequence, followed the advance, American Zinc, Butte & Superior, Baldwin, Chandler Motor, Brake, Studebaker and Marine preferred issues were the leading notes on a point or more gain, but the most price changes were fractional. Willys-Overland only sold at 23 3/4 bid on one transaction. Coppers were irregular and less active than yesterday. The greatest relative strength was shown by war order issues. They were also the most active stocks as a group. Railroads were as there as ever. Reading was the strongest and most extensively traded in carrier. The market, in fact, had the same characteristics as were displayed when the week started. It was fairly active and had a firm undertone, which continued to improve. Large interests are said to be expecting a bull movement this month. Fear of serious international trouble has dwindled.

A New York dispatch says: There was a strong tone to trading at the opening with war orders and peace bulletins the most prominent position. Business showed a marked falling off in volume, however, and there was a disposition on the part of the bull interests to look for recessions at first. Saturday's short interest has made the market hesitate after the initial trading, but there was no pressure in evidence.

At the end of half an hour the stripper of stock was practically cleaned up and had a lower range. Trading has decreased in volume.

UNITED FRUIT THE FEATURE.

The Boston market was strong at the start and business was fairly active at the outset. Most of the trading was in a few mining shares and United Fruit. The latter became also as well as active. Within half an hour it advanced two points to 132, Alaska Gold and Wolverine were strongest in their groups.

It was rumored in New York this morning the British government had exercised an option on 60,000 tons of copper and in regard to 40,000 tons more. Domestic demand for June copper is so strong that producers are asking a premium for June delivery.

In London today spot copper was up £2s, futures advanced £5 and electrolytic was unchanged. Spot tin was off 10s, futures 5s and Straits 5s. Lead quotations were 7s 6d lower. Spot spelter and futures were off £2.

DISCOVER CURE OF DEADLY WAR TYPHUS

Paris, April 4.—A cure of exanthematic typhus, the disease which ravaged Serbia, has been discovered by Professor Roily, according to a report to the Academy of Medicine today. The results of the vaccine treatment was secret and has already given good results in treatment, although it is not a preventive.

All statements to the contrary notwithstanding, the Packard Motor Car Company will not participate in motor events this year. President Alvan Macauley says that the Packard Company believes that the Packard Company will not, however, continue to make exhibition speed work under the supervision of the American Automobile Association.

J. B. Lincoln of the Lincoln Motor Car Company is in the South enjoying a recess from executive duties and routine. He will spend a month touring the southlands.

Harry Harkness, president of the Stoneybend Inn Speedway Company, has announced that the date for the opening of the Stoneybend racing team, which it is intended shall be in active competition for the opening of the Speedway, has been changed from May 1 to May 15.

Shipments of finished motor cars during the first weeks of March have been made at the rate of 6,000 cars monthly, according to the Motor Car Dealers' Association of New York, and indications are that the output will be increased 10,000 cars in 1916. This is almost 50 per cent better than the company's previous mark for that year.

A Typical Instance of How the People Are Misrepresented

THERE was a debate in the Massachusetts House of Representatives the other day on the question of incorporating the plan for preferential voting into the charter of the city of Newton. One Burr, from the Back Bay district, said:

"The people of Newton want this charter, but it is a question whether the Legislature ought to let them have it. If they get it we shall be flooded with petitions from other cities."

Great statesman! Splendid representative of the people! This is a good example of representative government in this country. This is the reason for the growing demand for the initiative and referendum.

Preferential voting is being adopted by progressive communities throughout the world. A body of representatives who will listen with tolerance to such talk as this from a representative, however insignificant, illustrates the utter breaking down of representative government and all pretence of it.

These men in the Legislature do not represent anybody but themselves and their own private interests. They do practically represent the organized special interests of the State, but only because those special interests appeal effectively to their PRIVATE interests.

Pry Off the "Dead Hand," Mr. Mayor

MAYOR CURLEY is on the right road to meet city expenses when he urges the assessors to raise the assessments on the unproductive real estate of the city so that its owners must either improve it or throw it into the market for purchase by some more enterprising persons who WILL improve it.

The holding of unimproved land in a growing community for merely speculative purposes is a great evil which our people have stupidly suffered these many generations, to their exceeding loss. The owner sits idly by, doing absolutely nothing to add to its value, like the drone in the beehive, while his neighbors about him are busy at their avocations, building, improving, adding to the population of the city, increasing its wealth, increasing its business transactions, giving it schools, playgrounds, police, fire protection, gymnasia, public baths, public libraries, museums, roads, lights, railroads, street railways and everything that makes land valuable in the city. It is the activity of the idle land-owner's neighbors which gives his land its ENTIRE value. Take that land from out the city, put it where there are no neighbors, and it would be worthless.

It is high time that this so-called "unearned increment" should cease to accrue to the idle land-owner. This increment belongs entirely to the community which has created its value.

Let Mayor Curley persist in this direction, and if he succeeds in prying off from the development of Boston the dead hand which has been its curse for more than a generation he will accomplish more than any other single Mayor has accomplished since the Civil War.

The Progressives Will Not Be Fooled

THE United Shoe Machinery papers, which have been nourishing Senator Weeks' presidential aspirations, may cavil at Governor McCall's offer to withdraw in favor of Mr. Bird as a candidate for a delegate-at-large. They may say that it has a tendency to party disruption.

Unless they believe that they have sufficiently disorganized and disintegrated progressive sentiment to make it now entirely harmless and helpless, it is difficult to see how they can sincerely consider Governor McCall's offer to give the Progressives a representation to be disrupting. If they really believe that they can get along without the Progressive vote, they might with reason be annoyed at the Governor's proposal. But they know better. Their real theory is that they can fool the Progressives into mistaking the shadow for the substance of things.

Governor McCall knows better. He is a much saner leader than the minions of the United Shoe Machinery Company.

Give the West End a Public Bathhouse

CAN municipal economists figure anything but a net profit to the city by the establishment of a public bath in the West End?

Municipalities do not function for direct cash dividends. An enterprising, progressive, advancing city gets its returns indirectly by the increased efficiency of its citizens.

Is there any better means of increasing the efficiency of the citizens of the West [illegible] than by a public bathhouse which will help them [illegible] clean and healthy?

DID IT EVER HAPPEN TO YOU?

Some Scientific Study Out of School

How East and West Run in Circles Round the Earth's Surface and Vanish at the Poles—And How the Pull of the Earth Diminishes with Distance

By Garrett P. Serviss

"If I were to start at a given point on the equator in the Western hemisphere and travel in an easterly direction, and make a complete circuit to the starting point, would I at any time be traveling in a westerly direction? and if so, at what point?—R. K. N., Winnetka, Ill."

EAST and west and north and south are terms expressing ideas of direction based upon the rotation of the earth about a fixed axis. If we go toward one of the poles or ends of the axis, we say we are going north, and if we go toward the opposite pole we call that going south.

So if we go toward the sunrise we call that direction east, and if toward the sunset, west. In either case we are traveling on the circumference of a circle, and we carry our reference points with us, so that although, as we move over the curved surface of the earth, our actual direction in space is continually changing, it remains unchanged for us as long as we do not turn about in our course. Consequently, in going eastward around the earth you would at no point be moving westward.

When you had reached a point diametrically opposite to that from which you started, your direction in space would be exactly contrary to what it had been at the starting point, but this would not affect your continued eastward motion, for "east" and "west" have nothing to do with absolute direction in space, but refer to direction around the earth.

The universe knows neither east nor west, nor north nor south. The same fixed star may be in the east in the evening, in the south at midnight, and in the west in the morning, according as the rotation of the earth carries the observer, with his unchanging "points of the compass," into ever shifting positions.

If, however, you should start to walk around the earth, going north or south, on a meridian line, your direction would change when you passed through either of the poles. If you started at the equator and went north you would begin to go south the instant you stepped across the north pole, and no matter what way you faced when you were at the pole every direction on the earth would be south.

As you stood on the pole, east and west would become for you nothing, but mental conceptions of a spinning motion. You would recall that with the spin of the earth meant east, and against it, west. By watching the motion of sun and stars, sailing in perpetual circles around you, you would be able to tell which way the spin went. And, to put yourself in motion either west or east, would be simply to twist round, one way or the other, on your heel.

Considering the heavens as the inner surface of a great sphere concentric with the earth, we transfer these notions of direction to the face of the sky. The north point of the heavens is directly over the north pole of the earth, and from that point every direction in the sky is south, just as from the south pole every direction is north.

The ideas of east and west in the heavens are, similarly, based on the rotation of the earth around its axis.

Venus is said to be east of the sun when she shines in the western sky after sunset, because then she sets after sundown, and must consequently be further eastward, in the sense of the earth's rotation, than the sun is. When she is visible in the eastern sky, in the morning, she is west of the sun, and rises before him.

"Please explain at what height above the earth's surface a one-pound weight would weigh only one-half pound.—F. R., Philadelphia."

At a height of about 1,639 miles. If you wish to make for yourself such calculations, which are all of the same nature as that whereby Newton proved the law of gravitation, and thus laid the foundations of modern astronomy, you have only to remember that the force of the earth's attraction, to which "weight" is due, varies inversely as the square of the distance between the earth's centre and the attractive body.

If the distance increases the weight decreases. In the case in hand, the first weight is 1 and the second weight ½. To avoid long multiplication call the first distance which must be equal to the radius of the earth, since the body to begin with lies on the earth's surface, unity, or 1, and call the second distant X. Then, by the rule, 1 is to ½ as X squared is to 1 squared.

This gives us, by the "rule of three," X squared divided by 2 equals 1, whence X squared equals 2, and X, the number required, equals the square root of 2, which is 1.414. Now multiply the radius of the earth, 3,959 miles, by 1.414 and we get 5,598 miles as the value of X. Subtracting from this the radius of the earth, the remainder, 1,639, represents the height of the body above the earth's surface.

The Newsboy

By William F. Kirk

FINE little soldier, fighting alone,
Hustling and hustling from morning to night,
Nobody wonders how weary you've grown,
Nobody knows when your world isn't bright.
None of the throng that goes eddying by
Gives you a smile or a pat on the head;
Nobody guesses how bravely you try;
Nobody cares for the tears left unshed.

Into the mansion you wistfully peer,
Watching some beautiful mother and child;
Onward you trudge with no sign of a tear,
Dreaming, perhaps, how your mother once smiled.
Onward you trudge with your voice ringing loud,
Crying your "Wuxury!" and fighting your fight,
Wriggling your way through the pitiless crowd,
Heedless of cold, unafraid of the night.

Where are the heroes more gallant than you?
Where is the fight more sublime than your own?
Where is a courage more steady and true,
Fighting for bread and receiving a stone?
Far from the merciless hive where you dwell,
Up in a Headquarters brilliant and blue,
One Great Commander is watching you well,
One who is loving and caring for you.

Difficult Matrimonial Problem for Girls

Often Hard to Decide Between Calm, Safe Suitor and Uncertain, Reckless Admirer, Whose Presence Always Thrills—Regret Almost Sure Whatever Choice May Be

By Dorothy Dix

A YOUNG woman has applied to me for advice on a sentimental subject. She has two suitors. One of the men is intellectual, cultured, moral, upright, all that a man could be. The girl admires him very much indeed.

She enjoys his wise conversation and calm attitude toward life, and she knows that if she marries him she will have a placid and safe journey across the matrimonial sea, with no danger of encountering storms and shipwreck.

The other suitor is in every way inferior to the first. He is not clever, nor well educated, nor well-to-do like the other man, nor is it any privilege to listen to his conversation unless you consider baseball and vaudeville the most important topics in the world, and you are making a collection of current slang.

In a word, this young man is just an ordinary young fellow, with a fairly good job, and a tendency to fall off the water wagon now and then and zigzag from the straight and narrow path.

Struggles Sure with One, Monotony with the Other

If the girl marries him she knows well enough that life will be a struggle, and that matrimony will be an adventurous trip that is as likely to end in a divorce court as anywhere else.

There is no comparison between the two men or the relative advantages of the two marriages, yet the girl hesitates between them because—so strange a thing is the human heart and so illogical are its processes—it is the inferior suitor, and not the superior one, who sets her pulses thrilling.

The good, sensible man appeals to her reason, the harum-scarum one to her affections. So she asks me which she shall choose—the one that comes up to her ideal or the one that fires her fancy.

By way of answer, I can only say that whichever way she chooses she will regret it. The only perfect marriages, the only real true matings, are those in which head and heart are equally satisfied. This rarely happens, and that is why there are so few happy marriages.

Cupid, Greedy Chap, Never Satisfied with Half Rations

Cupid is a greedy little chap. He is never satisfied with half rations. No matter how good a man or a woman may be, or how perfectly he or she may do his or her duty as husband or wife, everything is dust and ashes unless, along with his or her good conduct record, there goes that strange something that quickens the blood and makes the heart go pit-a-pat.

What this mysterious attraction of a certain man and woman for each other consists of we do not know. We only know that it exists, and that it is the strongest power in nature and the one that can least be manufactured or cultivated. A man may be all that a woman admires and attract her not at all.

A woman may be everything that a man reveres and be absolutely repulsive to him, while, on the other hand, a woman may actually despise a man's character and be irresistibly drawn to him, and a man may know a woman for a poor, weak, silly creature, and yet not be able to resist her fatal fascination for him.

Whether judgment or inclination should rule in the selection of a life partner is a mooted question. In America we marry by inclination, and in France they marry by judgment, and we hold the divorce record.

That, however, proves nothing except that we Americans are an impatient race and are more progressive about trying to improve bad conditions, even when they are matrimonial conditions, than are Europeans.

Certainly the woman who marries a man just because he appeals to her brains, and will make a good, safe husband, will never be very happy. She may, if she is philosophical, be satisfied and contented to a degree as she contemplates her physical comforts and engages in placid discussions on Browning and Ibsen with her intellectual spouse.

But always her heart will be a-hungering for the romance and the golden glory she has missed. She knows that friendship is not love, any more than beer is champagne, and there will be many and many a time when she will wonder if one wild thrill of love is not worth a whole fat life of commonplace comfort.

But if she takes the thrill and lets the comfort go she stands the chance of forever cursing herself for her folly in forsaking the fleshpot for the sake of a kiss. Because, after all, thrills are the chills and hectic fever of romance, for which matrimony is generally a never-failing cure. They seldom last, and when they are gone so often all is gone.

Those Who Marry for Head Sure of Bargains

The man and woman who marry for their heads, and who pick out the husband and wife of whom their judgment approves, have, at least, the consolation of a good bargain. The man has the kind of a woman he wanted for the mother of his children and at the head of his house.

The woman has her establishment, her position in society, her shopping ticket. But it is the tragedy of those who marry for their hearts that when the thrill is dead and the romance played out they have nothing but the burden of matrimony left.

So it is that whichever way you marry you wish you had done the other thing. The safe way is not to marry until you find the man or woman who both fires your fancy and comes up to your ideal. But if we waited for that precious few of us would ever reach the altar.

Why Is a Tonic?

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects

PART TWO

THERE was a world of shrewd philosophy in the old saying that beer is the only thing that will make a poor man feel like a millionaire for ten cents. And a teaspoonful of bitter medicine three times a day is a most inexpensive substitute for more fresh fruits, fresh vegetables, meat and butter in the diet, or a trip to the city, or seashore, or mountains, or a week's vacation.

Modern life, particularly city life, is itself a tonic, with its crowded variety of interests, its varied and richer food supply, its cheap trolleys and steamboats, and its abundant supply of healthful amusements.

Don't take your tonic out of a bottle, but out of doors, or from a bill of fare, or in a theatre seat.

Another reason for tonics was that they save trouble. It is so much easier to take a teaspoonful of something, no matter how bitter, three times a day out of a bottle, than it is to reform and improve your habits of living.

You feel out of sorts and "off your feed" and bilious because you have been sitting up to all hours in bad air, or working ten hours a day with the windows hermetically sealed, or bolting your meals, or, if you are a woman, just "piecing" your way through the day without a decent, hot, sit-down meal.

But instead of putting yourself to the labor and trouble and real mental exertion involved in giving yourself plenty of sleep and good ventilation all day long, and wholesome, regular meals, and at least a few yards of exercise in the open air, you can satisfy your conscience and feel that you have done your duty by your health simply by gulping down a mouthful of somebody's unrivalled tonic or tissue builder after meals and at bedtime.

No tonic, however good and powerful, can ever do more than serve as an introduction committee to real food.
